PREFACE

Throughout The Terrell/Terral Family History you will see the Terrell line who have retained the spelling of Terrell who are related to all the Terrals through William and Anne Terrell. On page five it is noted when Joshua Terrell Sr. changed his name to Terral. From this point on all of Joshua's descendants have continued to use the spelling "Terral" in place of "Terrell".

Some researchers feel that the Terrals descend from the Terrells of England and others feel they descended from the Terrells of Wales. These lines of descent are not documented so I have chosen not to make them apart of The Terrell/Terral Family History.

This edition of The Terrell/Terral Family History, 1710 - 2000, follows several lines. The line of Charles Pearson Jinks is as follows: (1) William Terral, (2) Joshua Terral, (3) Edward Young Terral, Sr., (4) John Terral Sr., (5) Samuel Terral, (6) Eliza Rebecca Terral, (7) Curtis Pearson Jinks, (8) Charles Pearson Jinks Sr., (9) his children; Elizabeth Susan Jinks, Charlotte Marie Jinks, and Charles Pearson Jinks Jr., (10) his grandchildren; Elizabeth Emily Rose, Rebekah Elizabeth Rose, Charles Pearson Kikkert, Aimee Michelle Ware, Kristine Marie Ware, Diane Marie Jinks-Kikkert, Duane Youngberg, David Youngberg, and William Donald Jinks Youngberg.

To you who find your name in these pages, please accept my gratitude because you have helped make our lineage more complete.

1. William TERRELL. Born About 1710 in VA. Died 14 Oct 1784 in Bennetsvillle, Marlboro County, SC. Religion Baptist.

William Terrell came to Charleston, South Carolina in 1737 with a wife and two children. In August, 1738, he is recorded as holding 200 acres in the Welch Neck tract of St. David's Parish, a low lying, swampy section in a bend of the river opposite the present-day town of Society Hill. The acreage was bounty land, given by the government of the province to attract settlers to the almost uninhabited area.

William's petition for land does not state where he came from. Some books claim he came from Wales, immigrating to Philadelphia but not residing there long. There are no sources to document this claim.

Welch Neck was settled by a colony of Welchmen who had come to America shortly after 1700. For a generation the group lived near New Castle, Delaware (then Pennsylvania). Agents from the group visited Charles Town, South Carolina, and petitioned to be given land on which to settle some of their families. The petition was granted, and the "Charles Town Gazette" of February 5-12, 1737, noted that "several of the said families have sold their possessions in Pennsylvania, some being arrived, and others on their way to this province."

It is not certain that William Terrell came to South Carolina with the Welch families in 1736-1737. He may have, for he lived among them the rest of his life and they were not, in the beginning, especially cordial to outsiders. In 1742, he was one of the signers of a petition, which began, "We have left Pennsylvania..." but he may have signed this simply as a member of the neighborhood. There are lists of the Welch families both in Pennsylvania and in South Carolina, and although there is no way to know for certain that they are complete, they appear to be, and the Terrell name is not given. Bishop Gregg, in his "History of the Old Cheraws", did assume the Terrells were Welch, and though he does not give proof, he did talk with members of the family in preparing his book in the 1850's.

There were a few settlers in the area before the Welch arrived, however, and William Terrell may have been one of them. One of the first activities of the Welch was to found their church, and it may be significant that William Terrell was not a founding member, but joined about five years later. The Terrell family of Virginia was well established by this time and members of it settled in North Carolina at least as early as 1743, and there were others in South Carolina, near Camden, in the 1750's. A generation later members of the Richmond Terrell family of Virginia lived in Lancaster County, South Carolina and another Richmond Terrell was a close neighbor of William Terrell's sons in Marlboro in the 1790's, but no cousinly connection has passed down. William was a common name in the Virginia family, and as some in the earliest days are not accounted for it is possible that William Terrell of Welch Neck was one of them.

William and Anne became members of the Welch Neck Baptist Church, 3 April 1743. They owned farmland on both sides of the Great PeeDee River, about 500 acres in all. The location of their home is shown on the Mouzon map of the Carolinas, published in 1774.

They were neither rich nor poor, just hardworking farmers. They were regular members of a church, which not only frowned upon, but also rather vigorously acted against such excesses as card playing, dancing, fiddling and speaking poorly of one's neighbors. William Terrell could read and write, and his children had some education and valued it. Two of his sons were founding members of the St. David's Academy in the 1770's, one of the earliest established schools in the interior of South Carolina.

William Terrell's death is recorded in the minute book of the Welch Neck Church. The Terrell's were probably buried in the old Welch Neck churchyard on the banks of the PeeDee River, where only a few fragments of the early gravestones remain.

One record from the Ancestral File of LDS Church indicates William is the son of William, born 1650 in England. William would have been 60 years old when his son was born. This record remains undocumented.

Another statement is given that William Terrell is a descendant of the Thornton-Hall line of Buckinghamshire, England. Genealogists are unable to document this statement.

The Terrell name is not found in Marlboro County, South Carolina area after about 1885, but William and Anne Terrell have thousands of descendants throughout the south and southwest, descended from their many grandchildren, nearly all of whom moved west in the early years of the nineteenth century.

He married Anne. Died After 1778.
They had the following children:

Second Generation

2. Joshua TERRELL Sr. Son of William TERRELL & Anne. Born About 1740/1744 in Welch Neck, Cheraw District, SC. Died 2 Nov 1784 in Welch Neck, Marlboro County, SC.

Joshua Terrell's name is spelled Terral on Captain George Hicks Muster Roll in the French and Indian War of 1759-1760. It may have been a spelling error by a clerk and was then formally adopted by Joshua in order to receive military benefits. For whatever reason, this appears to be the time in which, the surname Terrell, was changed to Terral, in this branch of the Terrells. This spelling was used in early Jasper County, Mississippi records.

Joshua had several children, one of whom, Edward Young Terral, is the ancestor of the large Terral family in Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas and northern Louisiana.

He married Mary Ann YOUNG, Before 1763 in Marlboro County, Welch Neck, SC. Born About 1742 in Welch Neck, Cheraw District, SC. Died About 1784 in Marlboro County, SC.
They had the following children:

8	i.	Edward Young TERRAL Sr.
9	ii.	Joshua TERRAL Jr.
10	iii.	William TERRAL

3. William TERRELL Jr. Son of William TERRELL & Anne. Born About 1744 in Welch Neck, Marlboro County, SC. Died About 1781 in Welch Neck, Marlboro County, SC. Religion Baptist.

William Terrell Jr. was admitted into membership in his father's church, the Old Welch Neck Baptist Church, on October 1, 1774, and chosen as a Deacon in 1777. His wife, Elizabeth, was also baptized in the church.

William, Jr. was present, on December 31, 1777, at the first meeting of the group of Welch Neck residents who organized as the St. David's Society and pledged themselves to the building of a local academy. In a subscription list of 1778, it is noted that William gave 100 Pounds toward the establishment of the school.

Bishop Gregg notes that William Terral, Jr. "was engaged in public service before the Revolution, but did not survive that period." He seems not to have served in the militia, but no doubt died before most of the local companies were formed.

A brief inventory of his estate made some years after his death lists household goods and books valued at 79 Pounds, a Negro cook and a Negro slave, Pompey, both of whom remained with his widow.

William Terrell probably lived on his father's land. His widow, Elizabeth, was remarried after his death, to William Fields, in Richmond County, North Carolina on April 26, 1783. She continued to live in Marlboro County for many years, dying there about 1809

William and Elizabeth Pledger Terrell had only one child, John Terrell, known as Captain John. Captain John had an older half-brother, Jesse Council and a younger half-brother and sister, James and Ginney Fields.

He married Elizabeth PLEDGER, daughter of Philip PLEDGER, 1774.
They had the following child:

11	i.	John TERRELL Capt.

4. Samuel TERRELL. Son of William TERRELL & Anne. Born After 1745 in Marlboro County, SC. Died After 1804 in Marlboro County, SC.

Samuel Terral is thought to be a little younger than Joshua and William. He lived in Marlboro County, South Carolina where he was administrator of his father's estate. He was a Lieutenant in the Militia during the Revolution in 1781-83. What became of most of his family is uncertain.

He married Elizabeth PEARCE, daughter of Dickson PEARCE, 1770.
They had the following child:

12 i. Martha TERRELL

5. James TERRELL. Son of William TERRELL & Anne. Born 1746 in Welch Neck, Marlboro County, SC.

6. Lucretia TERRELL. Daughter of William TERRELL & Anne. Born 1747 in Welch Neck, Marlboro County, SC.

She married John DYER, 1768 in Marlboro County, Welch, Neck, SC. Died Before 1804.

John Dyer's name is associated with the Terrells in several documents. Samuel Terrell was the administrator of his estate in 1804. Dyer was a "schoolmaster" in the Welch Neck settlement. One of his sons, Joseph Uriah Dyer, was given a slave by Edward Terrell in 1793 "in consideration of the love, good will and affection I have and do bear towards (him)."

7. Jonathan TERRELL. Son of William TERRELL & Anne. Born 1755 in Marlboro County, SC. Died About 1805 in Chesterfield County, SC.

He married Sarah ALLEN, About 1784. Born 1760 in NC. Died 1851 in Sumter County, AL.

A descendant of Sarah Allen's grandfather married Jeptha Terrell or Jeptha Terrell, Jr. who at one time resided in Granville County, North Carolina. Other descendants of the Allen grandfather included members of the Richard Posey family of South Carolina.

10. William TERRAL. Son of Joshua TERRELL Sr. & Mary Ann YOUNG. Born 1765/1774.

William was in Darlington County, SC in 1800 and 1810.

11. John TERRELL Capt. Son of William TERRELL Jr. & Elizabeth PLEDGER. Born 3 Oct 1777 in Marlboro County, SC. Died 21 Jun 1860.

John Terral is the only child of William and Elizabeth Terral.

John was a respected and well known in the ante-bellum (plantation) days in Marlboro County, South Carolina. He was a wealthy cotton planter whose home was a few miles south of Bennettsville, South Carolina. Bishop Gregg called him one of the best men of his day and his generation. By the time he was little over 20 he had a farm of his own, no doubt helped along by his step-father, William Fields.

In 1810 he owned 18 slaves and during the next several decades he acquired many thousands of acres of farmland. His will is on file in Bennettsville, South Carolina. In the will he leaves many household effects and over sixty slaves to his children.

He was always known as "Captain", which may indicate some military service in his youth or may simply have been a mark of respect.

When John married Ann Allison he was twenty-eight and she was fourteen. There are beautiful portraits of them painted by Scarborough, owned by Mr. Warren Coggeshall in Darlington, South Carolina and reproduced by Darlingtoniana.

Both were members of the Sawmill Baptist Church, later the First Baptist Church of Bennettsville. They are buried in the Bennettsville churchyard.

The Southern Baptists published lengthy obituaries of both Captain John and his wife. Of Captain John they wrote: "Up to within a few years his was a vigorous constitution--a great old age. But he suffered a sudden paralysis, since then his health has been feeble, and he has lived in constant expectation of change. As the final hour drew near he said, "I am tired of the world, but it will not be long now and I shall be at rest." No man was more esteemed for his many sterling qualities as a citizen. If in his moments of thought a single word or deed was remembered calculated to wound the heart of either friend or foe, he would go directly and make every explanation and acknowledgement that honor or religion could demand. His appeal was to reason, to love, to God, and his success was remarkable.

Many years since, when the cares of a large and increasing family pressed upon him, before his income was one-fourth of what it afterwards became, he covenanted with the Lord to give to His cause one-tenth of his income. And whether much or little came in, that proportion was ever after considered sacred to the Lord. And the Lord enabled him in one year, before his death, to give more than ten times as much in amount as he did the year he adopted the plan."

Of Mrs. Ann Terrell, the paper wrote: "The death of this estimable lady was quite sudden and unexpected. She retired to rest on the evening of her death, apparently in her accustomed good health; about eleven o'clock she awoke, (her husband had the family called) spoke but few words, and in a few brief moments the lovely spirit had taken flight into eternity."

Captain John Terrell and his wife Ann had nine children who survived infancy, and they were all daughters.

He married Ann ALLISON, daughter of Major Robert ALLISON, 8 May 1805. Born 24 Aug 1790. Died 21 Dec 1853 in Marlboro County, SC.
They had the following children:

Lida Rebecca Terral's name is listed as Eliza Rebecca Terral on the Birth Certificate of her son, Harold McCormack Jinks, born 1906. Ten years later, on the Birth Certificate of Jewel Corrine Jinks, she is listed as Lida Rebecca Terral.

Lida Rebecca Terral was known as "Granny Jinks" by most everyone.

On her birthday in 1947 she was building a fire in her wood stove preparatory to baking a cake. (She had a gas range but thought her cakes turned out better if baked on her old wood stove.) It looked as though her fire had gone out so she attempted to pour a little kerosene on it and start over. It turned out that there was fire in the stove, and when it surprised her by flaring up, she jumped back spilling kerosene all over her which burst into flame and before PK and Leon, who was visiting her, could put it out, she had suffered third degree burns over a lot of her body.

She could not use her right hand after the burns. In order to write to her children, she learned to write with her left hand.

She married Pearson Kimbrow JINKS, son of William Lydo (Lydie) JINKS & Martha Jane GOSS, 17 Dec 1895 in Farmerville, Union Parish, LA. Born 29 Sep 1873 in Claiborne Parish, LA. Died 1 Jun 1956 in Little Rock, Pulaski County, AR. Buried 4 Jun 1956 in Beulah Cemetery, Union Parish, LA. Occupation Farmer And Carpenter.

Pearson Kimbrow Jinks was usually called PK. PK Jinks was a big man, physically, and he left the impression that he was just as big inside as out. His voice, though gruff, was kind. He had a great sense of humor but it was sometimes dry.

When Harrison Mondy asked PK "for Margaret's hand in marriage ", he said, "Now I'm gonna tell you the same thing I've told all the others. I don't mind marrying my daughters off, but I want you to know, I don't want to marry them on."

Harrison was 29 and Margaret was 28 when they decided to get married so PK told Harrison about the couple who had waited a long time to get married. The father of the groom said to him, "Well son, if she turns out good, she was worth waiting for and if she turns out bad, you got her soon enough."

They had the following children:

150	i.	Leon Carlton JINKS
151	ii.	Albert Barto JINKS

150. Leon Carlton JINKS. Son of Pearson Kimbrow JINKS & Eliza (Lida) Rebecca TERRAL. Born 21 Oct 1896 in Union Parish, LA. Died 26 Sep 1979 in Conroe, TX. Buried 29 Sep 1979 in Garden Park Cemetery. Education Texas A & M University.

Leon Carlton was the first of 10 children. In about 1902 his family moved to south Texas in covered wagons.

Leon Carlton Jinks enlisted in the Army, 23 Sep 1918, at the age of 21. His branch of service was Infantry and his grade was Private. Leon's Service Number was 3833622, with a Job Classification of 'Officer's Training School.' He was discharged or demobilized on 8 Dec 1918. The war ended after he had only served 76 days.

Following Leon's discharge from the Army he joined his brother, Barto, in the north Texas oil fields so he could save enough money to attend Texas A & M University. He graduated in 1922.

Leon met Mary Jean Cunnyngham, in 1924. She had a job teaching in Pittsburg, Texas, where he was Camp County Agricultural Agent and Secretary of their Chamber of Commerce.

He married Mary Jean CUNNYNGHAM, daughter of John Henry CUNNYNGHAM & Frances (Fannie) WILLIS, 12 Aug 1926 in Camp County, TX. Born 30 Oct 1899 in Hillsboro, TN. Occupation Teacher. Education University.

Mary Jean Cunnyngham was born on a Monday, on a farm, near Manchester, Tennessee. She is the seventh in a family of nine, two brothers died in infancy. When she was one year old her family moved, by train, to join relatives living in north central Texas.

Her father, after farming her grandmother's farm, near Randolph, Texas, for about four years, bought a farm in Collin County, near the towns of Leonard, Greenville and Bonham, Texas, where she grew up.

Mary Jean and her younger sister, Ruth, attended a country school until they were ready for their last two years of high school. At that time their father bought a house in Leonard where Mary Jean lived until she went to college. Upon completion of college Mary Jean went to Pittsburg, Texas to teach high school. She taught English and History.

It was in Pittsburg that Mary Jean met and married Leon Jinks. At that time, Leon was offered a job in Huntsville, Texas. It was there their oldest son, Leon Jr., was born. From there they moved to Mt. Pleasant, Texas where their second son, Larry, was born.

In late 1929 Leon was offered the job of County Agent in Clay County, Arkansas. In January 1930 they moved to Piggott, the county seat. They lived in Arkansas for the next 41 years. During this time their daughter, Jeanie, was born and they bought a house in Pine Bluff, AR. Their three children went through high school in AR. Leon Jr. went on to Hendrix College and Jeanie went to Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia. Larry, who was interested in journalism, chose to go to the University of Missouri.

Leon retired while they were living in Pine Bluff. A few years later they decided to move back to Texas to be near their daughter, who was teaching school in Houston. Leon and Mary Jean settled in Conroe, Texas, where they lived until his death in 1979. They had 53 years together. Mary Jean continued to live there until she moved into a retirement community in 1992. At that time she lived within 20 minutes of her daughter. In about 1996 her daughter and family moved to Fort Wayne, IN. In order for Mary Jean to be near family, she also moved to Fort Wayne.

Mary Jean had a lot of wonderful memories of her childhood. Although she grew up in the country she was never lonely for she was a member of a large family, and especially because she had a younger sister to play with. She had very few "store bought" toys. Her paper dolls were cut from Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward catalogs. Mary Jean had pet kittens and puppies which she dressed in doll clothes. She always had plenty of home grown food and pretty hand-made dresses. Her real-live-sure-enough playmates were neighborhood children. Mary Jean's "social life" centered around her church activities. The small village, Pike, in which she lived had two churches; a Methodist church and a Baptist church. Her family alternated their attendance, going to the Methodist church one Sunday and going to the Baptist church the next. Pike had a drug store, a general store (that sold everything), a barbershop, a blacksmith shop, and a cotton gin. Near the gin was a pool of water (in which Baptists were baptized). In Pike there was also a doctor who made house calls. In that it was so seldom that the doctor came to her house, when he came to see her father, she was so worried that she sat on the stairs and cried because she thought her father was going to die.

Mary Jean remembers when they got their first telephone; also when hearing an airplane flying over was an event to be talked about. She remembers her first ride in a car -- it was to a park in Greenville for a picnic. She well remembers the first family car, a Willis Overland. Mary Jean learned to drive it when she was eighteen.

The following is a letter Mary Jean wrote to Helen, second wife of Curtis Pearson Jinks, July 1997:

Dear Helen,

I am getting a birthday card off to my oldest son and remembered you have the same birthday date and am sending one to you also. I hope you feel like celebrating. I heard that you planned to go to the Jinks Reunion but haven't heard if you were able to go. I have attended lots of them and wish I had thought to show you my pictures made on those occasions. We all looked so young.

I hear that CP still has good days and bad days. I get my information about the family mostly from the Mondy Morning Chronicle.

I thought we would never get any warm, pretty weather up here, but the last few days have been nice and I have been able to get out and walk. I had a virus awhile back that left me very weak and without any appetite but I think I am getting back to normal.

I guess life is about the same at Spring Shadows. It would have been nice if I could have stayed there but just have to be near some of the family.

Helen I hope you are doing well and wish I lived closer. Give your daughter and Tippi my best wishes. Do have a wonderful birthday!!

Lots of love

Mary Jean

The following letter from Mary Jean Jinks is in response to a 1996 Christmas letter that finally caught up with her.

September 18, 1997

Dear Elizabeth,

I was surprised to get a Christmas letter in August! I really didn't intend to get lost from anybody but our move was very unexpected. Jeanie's and Richard's oldest son, Kevin, was to be married to a girl he met during the years they were going to Texas Tech. The wedding date they chose was August 12, 1995 (incidentally mine and my husband's wedding anniversary). Then Richard's company offered him a promotion if he would move to the company's headquarters in Ft Wayne, IN. After much discussion, pro and con, he decided to accept. There was too much going on and too many decisions to make too fast. It ended up with me having to miss the wedding because the movers were due at my apt. early on Monday morning after the wedding on Sat. night. They were being married in a suburb of Ft. Worth where Julie's family live.

I couldn't stay in Houston because I had to live near one of my children. I love my sons very much but suppose a mother is always a little closer to her daughter. I lived (up here) with Jeanie and Richard until I could find an apartment. I have lived in this apartment two years today-- moved in Sept 18, 1995. Where has time gone?!

I'm glad 1996 was a good year for you and your family and hope this year, 1997, has been another good one.

I have realized lately that I know very little about the state of Arizona. I'm sorry to say that I'm not sure where Wayland University is but it must be located near Peoria. I couldn't find Peoria on my World Book Encyclopedia map but I did find Ft Huachuca and will look up Peoria in the library. We have a good library here.

I have just finished reading (my hobby) a good book Jeanie brought me about some people who were supposed to live in Tucson, AZ. It is fiction but tells a lot about the state. I didn't know much about Indiana until we moved here. The climate is mostly nice in spring, summer and fall. Winters are something else to someone who has spent most of her life in Arkansas and especially Texas!

I have been trying to write this letter for two days. I don't use a pen much any more because I make so many mistakes. Now- I will be ninety-eight (98) the 30th of Oct. Have no idea why I have lived so long. My husband, Charles' uncle Leon, died in 1979 when he was eighty-two. I'm so fortunate to have had him for 53 years and so fortunate to have my children.

My love to all of you!

Aunt Mary Jean

They had the following children:

222	i.	Leon Carlton JINKS Jr.
223	ii.	Robert Larry JINKS
224	iii.	Carolyn Margaret Jean JINKS

151. Albert Barto JINKS. Son of Pearson Kimbrow JINKS & Eliza (Lida) Rebecca TERRAL. Born 21 Oct 1898 in Farmerville, Union Parish, LA. Died 19 Mar 1978. Occupation Driller - Motel Owner. Education 8th Grade. Religion Baptist.

Barto was born on a Monday. He was the second of ten children and was born exactly two years after the birth of his brother, Leon. His Dad said he planned it that way so he and Mamma could save on birthday cakes.

In 1910 the family moved from the piney forests of Walker County to Matagorda County, Bay City, Texas. Matagorda County geographically joins the Gulf of Mexico. On their ten day journey to Bay City they had to cross three rivers; the Jacinto, Brazo and San Bernard. This was before bridges were constructed. Each river crossing became an experience. The mules were no problem. But getting the cows into the water and across was a problem; however, with Leon on one horn, Barto getting on the other and their Dad, P. K., acting as the tail-twister and guiding force, the crossings were always accomplished. Each river crossing was an occasion fraught with danger, excitement and success.

Meals were prepared over a camp fire. P. K. used his trusty shot gun to kill squirrels, quail and dove so his wife, Lida could prepare delicious meals. Creeks and ponds furnished a supply of fish, frogs and other edibles that were caught by Barto, Leon and P. K.

When the last day of the journey finally came, P. K. sent Leon on ahead, to their new home, to prepare for their arrival. There was a regular scheduled train transportation between Wharton and Bay City. The train would stop to pick up passengers along the way, so P. K. flagged it down and 15 year old Leon boarded to go on to Bay City. He walked three miles from the depot to their new home

When the others arrived, on a Sunday, before any unloading procedures began, they gathered around in a circle where P. K. made lengthy prayers to God for His protection during the ten day trip and for wisdom for direction in the future.

In that school had already started, Barto, along with Leon, Terral and Mattie Ozella immediately enrolled. They walked a three mile round trip to school.

In the field of agriculture, cotton was king in the south. P. K. had a new variety that promised increase yield with less seed and stronger fibre. Everything looked great for a good crop until the Colorado River overflowed and all the area, including where their farm was located, was completely covered by the flood water. Since the cotton was completely covered, it was thought that the 1912 harvest would be a complete failure. It wasn't a failure; it was a huge success. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service took pictures of Barto picking cotton bolls above his head. The pictures were put in the official cotton pamphlet. Needless to say, the cotton seeds, from this crop, were a hot item and P. K. was able to sell them at a good price.

During World War I, P. K. moved the family down close to Matagorda Bay to raise rice and castor beans. The beans produced the castor oil needed by the airplanes in the war against Germany. This was also an area filled with wildlife. During one of the years, Barto killed over 1,100 ducks. His mother, Lida, pickled a barrel of ducks in a mixture of brine and salt petre. This mixture turned the duck's meat red but didn't ruin the taste. Barto led his brothers in catching bull frogs at night and shipping them to the Progressive Commission Company in St. Louis. This source of funds allowed Barto and his brothers to purchase guns, ammunition, fishing supplies and other needs to take advantage of the great supply of wild life.

Barto, at 19, left home. He went to north Texas to work in the oil fields.

About 1920 Barto married Rose Renfro and they moved to West Columbia. They had four children, Evelyn, Albert, Bob and Virginia (known to the family as Tiny). Barto died at age 79, the second of the ten brothers and sisters to pass away.

They had the following children:

232	i.	Barbara Ann JINKS
233	ii.	Patricia Jean JINKS

153. Martha Ozella JINKS. Daughter of Pearson Kimbrow JINKS & Eliza (Lida) Rebecca TERRAL. Born 1 Nov 1903 in New Waverly, Walker County, TX. Died 6 Aug 1973 in Rosewood Hospital, Houston, TX. Buried 8 Aug 1973 in Forest Park - Gulf Freeway. Occupation Housewife. Education High School. Religion Baptist.

Ozella was the first of the ten children of Pearson Kimbrow Jinks and Lida Rebecca Terral to die. At death she was 69 years.

Medical: Cancer

She married Claude Herbert MILLER Sr., son of Charles Christian MILLER & Mary Ann LONG, 25 Dec 1921 in West Columbia, TX. Born 15 Sep 1896 in Madisonville, TX. Died 2 Dec 1969 in Galveston County Hospital, Texas City, TX. Buried 4 Dec 1969 in Forest Park - Gulf Freeway. Occupation Assistant Superintendent - Texas Oil Co. Education 7th Grade. Religion Baptist.

Claude was from a large family of ten children. His mother died when he was five years old and he lived with older sisters off and on until he was twelve. From that time on, he was more or less on his own. He only went through the seventh grade, that was the extent of his education.

Between the ages of twelve and seventeen he worked in the cotton fields.

At age seventeen he joined the Navy and went through Boot Camp at Norfork, Virginia. After Boot Camp he served on the U. S. S. Battleship Florida during World War I as a gunner mate.

After World War I he went to work in the oil fields and it was while he was working in Bay City, Texas that he met Ozella Jinks. She was a young high school girl of seventeen. They married in December of 1921, she being barely eighteen and he twenty-five.

Their first years of marriage included many moves from one oil field to the next. Their first child, Claude Herbert Miller, Jr. was born in Houston, Texas, November 24, 1924. Their second child, Dorothy Virginia Miller was born in Houston, Texas, January 1, 1928.

Claude and Ozella were devoted to their family and friends. Their devotion to their Lord was first and foremost in their lives. Claude became a Deacon in the Baptist Church early in their marriage and he played an active and dedicated part in that capacity. Ozella was often a teacher, Sunday School Superintendent, Bible School Coordinator or any job she was called on to do. They both were active in their church until their death.

Claude retired from the Texas Company (Texaco) at age 65, after 45 years with that company. He was Assistant Superintendent of the Southwest Production Division. He was dearly loved by friends and colleagues as "Mr. Claude". Ozella equally so, as "Nannie", to all who knew her, except family, there she was "Sister" or "Auntie".

Medical:
Cause of death: Heart Failure.

They had the following children:

234	i.	Claude Herbert (Mark) MILLER Jr.
235	ii.	Dorothy Virginia MILLER

The following article is printed in the Congressional Record-Senate - June 28, 1984. "A Tribute to Arkansas' Senior Interns".

*Mr. BUMPERS, Mr. President, I take a moment to pay tribute to Mr. Harold Jinks, one of the most dedicated public servants in the State of Arkansas. Harold is a man who has a clear vision of our Nation as one where every citizen is ensured freedom and justice, and he has worked ceaselessly to make this vision a reality. Harold Jinks spent 1 short week in my office this summer as a senior intern, and in that I week, exhibited more energy, enthusiasm, and idealism than all of us combined.

Mr. Jinks was born on February 11, 1906, and by age 22 had made his way to New York, where he graded cotton samples. He left New York to work for the Agriculture Extension Service, traveling the country helping farmers and their families. Harold met and married an Arkansas native while working at the Extension Service in Jonesboro, AR, and the State is lucky that his wife Wilma has kept him in the State since then. Harold describes Wilma as his most candid critic and closest adviser, and most important his best friend.

In 1942, Harold served in the Naval Air Force and suffered a serious injury in China that put him in a cast for 4 years. I'm sure, however, that even that serious injury didn't slow Harold down. In 1948, he received the first of many Government appointments when President Truman appointed him Postmaster of Piggott, AR. President Kennedy appointed Harold the Director of the Division of Postmasters and Rural Carriers and in 1964, President Johnson named him Special Assistant to the Postmaster General. Finally in 1968, Harold Jinks officially retired after 40 years of public service.

I must point out, however, that Mr. Jinks is far from retired. He has been active in Democratic Party politics since age 22, first serving as a representative to the Democratic National Committee in 1956. His retirement from the Postal Service just gave him more time to pursue his other interests. He is currently president of the Senior Democrats of Arkansas, and I am pleased to say that he will serve as an Arkansas delegate to the Democratic Convention in San Francisco next month. Harold has also been busy this spring and summer with his work as a member of the Democratic Platform Committee.

Excerpts from a letter, written by Harold Jinks to Elizabeth Jinks, follow:

October 8 1993

Dear Elizabeth:

Thanks so very much for your good letter and the request for information about our wonderful family.

It has been my personal privilege, wrapped up and tied with a red white and blue ribbon of duty, to have visited all of our fifty states and 37 foreign countries. I'm a history buff. I think that I know what makes this great free democracy tick. I have won many awards and have spoken to various organizations in all 50 states. I am very proud of what I have been able to do as a citizen, but the greatest thing that ever happened to me was the fact that I was born and reared, as one of the ten children of our wonderful family.

As I witness the moral decay coupled with the greed, the lack of compassion and caring for our fellow human beings, it causes me to think more and more about what mamma said when all ten of her children, with our spouses, gathered to celebrate our parents 50th wedding anniversary. This was on December 17, 1945. My mother said, "Pearson and I are the two richest people in the world. We have reared ten wonderful children that see that we have every need, and have shown that they love us just as much as we love them".

What a wonderful life and what a great heritage. So welcome to the family that you met at the reunion.

Under a separate mailing, I am sending some material that you might take a look at and keep, except for the autographed picture of my old friend, Harry Truman.

I gave my sister, Margaret, all of the family pictures that I had. Since I'll soon be 88 years of age, I thought that it would be wise to have them in the hands of a family member after God decided that the game was over for me.

It was really good that you and Charles could attend the reunion. Our family shows the values that have made this great country a role model for the other nations of the world. It really bothers me that those great character attributes are not being taught and practiced now as our parents taught us to do - compassion, honesty, humility, humanitarianism, sharing, caring and giving the time to help our neighbors.

Thanks again Elizabeth. As you can see, most of the material that I am sending is about me and my work as a public servant of the people.

Wilma joins me in sending our love and best wishes to you and your family.

Harold

Harold McCormick Jinks celebrated his 90th birthday (1996).

The following newspaper article, from the Courier, in Arkansas, is only one of many that were written on the life of Harold Jinks after his death:

Death of Harold Jinks marks end of era of Democratic politics in state

The death of Harold Jinks, 90 year old long-time Piggott resident, marked the end of an era of Democratic politics in Arkansas and Democrats on every level, county, state and national, lost a loyal supporter. He died October 13, 1996 in Bernard's Regional Medical Center, Jonesboro.

He attended every single Democratic National Convention from 1944 to 1992 and, no doubt, would have been at the Chicago convention the past Summer had it not been for the poor health of both himself and his wife, Wilma. He was know on both state and county levels as "Mr. Democrat."

Jinks enjoyed a long and varied career and was recipient of numerous honors in his later years, including a luncheon held in Little Rock in December 1989, honoring him for years of commitment to his party, his state and his nation. On the meeting agenda were Governor Bill Clinton, U. S. Senator David Pryor and U. S. Senator Dale Bumpers, all of whom had words of praise for the long time Clay countian. Governor Clinton said then of Jinks: "For 80-plus years he has gotten up in the morning with a spring in his step. He proves that age is a state of mind and not the passage of time." Jinks worked for Senator Pryor as an advisor on senior citizen issues, and Pryor said that his book of memoirs will include a chapter entitled "The Human Volcano" in reference to Jinks' tenacity and drive.

The senator went on to say that Jinks had led a movement for a better quality of life for Americans, particularly the elderly and the "underdogs."

Jinks also was known for his memory and his tremendous knowledge of political history in the United States.

Jinks received statewide recognition in 1992 with the establishment of an award named in his honor. The "Harold Jinks" award for the Outstanding Democratic Man of the Year has been presented annually since that time at the state Jefferson-Jackson dinner.

During his political career, Jinks served as a member of the national platform committee, the Arkansas state platform committee and was in charge of housing at two national conventions. He also started a Senior Democrats organization in Arkansas and served two terms as president.

In February of this year, Jinks was honored with a 90th birthday party in Sugar Creek Country Club in Piggot, an event that drew more than 200 friends and family, including U. S. Representative Blanche Lambert Lincoln. He also received birthday greetings from President Clinton.

At this event, Jinks stated: "I am a great believer in the two-party system and I hold it against no one who votes for another party, but I greatly object to people who curse our great nation and never take part in the electoral process."

Jinks was born February 11, 1906 in New Waverly, Texas and his father was a farmer whom Jinks planned to follow, earning a bachelor's degree in agriculture at Texas A and M. After working for a short time with the department of Agriculture, Jinks took a position, in 1934, with the Soil Conservation Service in Jonesboro. His first job was in Clay County where he did a research survey of corn and cotton production.

Jinks' older brother was the first Extension agent in Clay County and it was through him that Harold met Wilma, (Mrs. Jinks) who was working as a secretary in Piggott. They were married December 17, 1935.

In 1940 he went to work for the Selective Service Commission and was placed in charge of camp for conscientious objectors in Magnolia. He later joined the Naval Air Force and served as a nose gunner and navigator. His plane was shot down over the China Sea just nine days before World War Two ended and he suffered a broken neck in a crash that claimed seven lives.

After the war he began his long postal career as postmaster in Piggott. In 1957 he was named regional director for the Democratic National Committee, covering the states of Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

After moving to Washington, D. C., in 1961, Jinks was promoted to the position of Special Assistant to the Postmaster General. In that position he visited every state in the union.

Jinks retired 26 years ago, remaining active in Democratic politics as well as the National Retired

Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons. He founded the Washington-based Buy American action coalition, in 1988, and maintained a close relationship with several political leaders through the years, including President Clinton.

Jinks was active in the Piggott Presbyterian church where he served as an elder and worked with youth groups.

He authored two books, Book of Freedom, selling 337,000 copies and Ronald Reagan: Smile, Style and Guile.

Jinks was instrumental in promoting Les Biffle Day in Piggott on July 4, 1949, a celebration which included the unveiling of a bronze bust that is in the lobby of the Piggott Post Office. Attending that event were U. S. Senator J. W. Fulbright, U. S. Senator, John L. McClellan and Vice President Alben Barkley.

Excerpt from an article printed, October 28, 1996, in the Arkansas Gazette-Democrat:

Was it true that, when he as working for the feds, Harold Jinks had a telephone with a red white and blue ribbon tied around the receiver--a direct line to the president of the United States? And did it really play "Hail to the Chief" when it rang?

And didn't Harold Jinks have something to do with bringing Elia Kazan and Andy Griffith to Piggott, Ark., to make a movie? Did he and Ernest Hemingway really pal around in romantic Piggott? It wouldn't be a paper moon if Harold Jinks gave a speech about it.

Medical: Cause of death: Heart Attack

He married Wilma Helen LEHMAN, 17 Dec 1935 in Clay County, AR. Born 7 Dec 1912 in Piggott, Clay County, AR. Religion Presbyterian.

155. Curtis Pearson JINKS. Son of Pearson Kimbrow JINKS & Eliza (Lida) Rebecca TERRAL. Born 3 May 1909 in New Waverly, Walker County, TX. Died 12 Aug 1999 in Houston, TX. Buried 17 Aug 1999 in Roselawn Cemetery, Van Vleck, TX. Occupation Oilfield Drilling Superintendent/Minister. Education Graduate/Florida Baptist Bible Institute. Religion Southern Baptist.

Curtis Pearson Jinks is the sixth child of Kimbrow Pearson Jinks and Lida Rebecca Terral. C.P. followed the oil drilling profession, moving often. He took his family to Edmonton, Alberta in 1947 to work in the oil fields. In 1959 C.P. surrendered to preach the gospel and went to Graceville, Florida to further his education. C.P. Jinks retired from the ministry after serving several Baptist churches. They were in Chelan Washington; Bay City, Texas; Lamoni, Iowa; Barstow, California; and Owensville, Missouri.

The following article can be found in the book: Prairie Grass to Mountain Pass, Pincher Creek: Pincher Creek & District Historical Society, Third Printing, 1981, p. 195.

CHURCHES

History of the Baptist Church - in Pincher Creek

The Baptist Pioneers arrived in the Pincher Creek area after the turn of the century. At first they worshipped together in the Pound home in the Utopia-Fishburn district.

In 1905 Rev. R. McIntyre came and began the construction of the first Baptist Church building. The work flourished for a few years under various men, then declined and was finally closed. The building was sold to the Orange Lodge and was used by them for many years until it was bought back by the Baptists in 1970 and is now used for their Sunday School.

In 1948 the C. P. Jinks family moved into this community from Texas. They began looking for a Baptist Church and through the leadership of this family, other people of like background were brought together and a church organized.

The first public meetings were held in the Orange Hall in October 1948 when Rev. C. J. Smith of the Baptist Union was the speaker. Rev. Gerald Ward and members of First Baptist Church in Lethbridge also came out at this time, and later in the fall, Rev. Ward conducted a series of meetings. Church services were held on a regular basis from this time with C.P. Jinks acting as minister.

After the Jinks left Pincher Creek, Rev. and Mrs. A. J.D. Milton arrived and served for several years. During his term the church building was completed and dedicated in January 1951. Some of the early members were the Giffords, McKerrickers, Mr. Langin, Tustians, Mr. Watson, Smyths, Days, Mrs Dwyer and Snyders.

Spring of 1948 - through the summer of 1949 - C.P. Jinks and family lived in Pincher Creek, Alberta, less than one and one-half years. Kenneth was about a year old and Charles was in eighth grade when they moved to Pincher Creek. Another move was imminent when C.P. Jinks, a Drilling Superintendent, in the oilfields was fired from his job. A motor was burned up and C.P. and his drilling crew was blamed and fired. The motor burned up on the shift following C.P. Jinks'. Apparently, if C.P.'s crew had done their job this wouldn't have happened, so the story goes.

Pincher Creek

There are many stories told about how Pincher Creek got its name, which was in use as early as 1800. Most of the stories involve prospectors and a pair of pinchers (used for shoeing horses) lost beside the creek. In one version, someone goes back to get the pinchers; in another the Mounties find them rusted years later, and still another the men are lost and only the pinchers remain.

The town of Pincher Creek began in 1878 as a NorthWest Mounted Police farm and post. Eight men came from Ft. MacLeod with 200 horses, charged with the task of policing the territory from the U.S. border to the Porcupine Hills and west to the Rockies. They also farmed and raised horses for the force.

The area had rich grazing land, and was warmed in winter by chinooks, making it suitable for stock raising. In the 1880's many Mounties retired as ranchers in the area. One of them, Charles Kettles laid out the Pincher Creek townsite in 1882. It soon became a supply centre for the surrounding cattle county. In the 1900's ranchers had to make room for the "sod busters" who started growing wheat crops in the area. Natural gas was discovered at Pincher Creek and gas processing became an important addition to the local economy in the 1950's.

21 Nov 1958 - Residence of C.P. and Irene Jinks - 8603 - 66 Ave., Edmonton, AB.

The following is an autobiography of Rev. C. P. Jinks written in the late 1960's:

I was born the first time at New Waverly, Texas in the year of our Lord 1909. I was born the second time at West Columbia, Texas in 1925. My Mother and Dad were both Christians and Baptists. I married Irene Bell in 1932. To us were born five children.

I was ordained a Baptist Deacon in Arkansas in 1943. Most of my adult life, before entering the ministry, was spent in the oil fields of Texas, Oklahoma and Canada. I moved my family to Canada in 1947 and after arriving there and seeing the great need of a Baptist witness, I began preaching as a layman. In 1959 I felt God calling me into full time service and I entered Golden Gate Seminary and then transferred to Baptist Bible Institute. While in school I was pastor of Cedar Springs Baptist Church in the Alabama Baptist Convention. Through God's leadership we (my wife and I) led that church from a half-time church to a full-time. We also, led them to build a parsonage.

After finishing school we went to Chelan, Washington in the Oregon-Washington Convention. While serving there we went into a building program and built a new building.

My next pastorate was in Texas. Then in Iowa (Part of the Missouri Baptist Convention). I have been passed on twice by the Home Mission Board for Pastor's Supplement.

I have two sons in the ministry and another son who is a Baptist Deacon. My wife and I and our children have spent 23 years in all attending Southern Baptist schools and colleges.

CERTIFICATE OF ORDINATION

We, the undersigned, hereby certify that upon the recommendation and request of the Pilgrims Rest Baptist Church at Gordon, Alabama which had full and sufficient opportunity for judging his gifts, and after satisfactory examination by us in regard to his Christian experience, call to the ministry, and views of Bible doctrine, C. P. J i n k s was solemnly and publicly set apart and ordained to the work of THE GOSPEL MINISTRY by authority and order of the Bethel Baptist Church at Graceville, Florida on the 31st day of January 1960.

He first married Irene Elizabeth BELL, daughter of Frank Edwin BELL & Nora Lee SCHMERBER, 6 Oct 1932 in New Gulf, TX. Born 6 Oct 1911 in Matagorda, TX. Died 7 Mar 1989 in Houston, TX. Buried in Roselawn Cemetery, Van Vleck, TX. Occupation Hswfe. Education Graduate/Florida Baptist Bible Institute. Religion Southern Baptist.

Irene Elizabeth Bell graduated from Gulf High School in Texas in 1930, and attended Mary Hardin Baylor College. Irene returned to Newgulf, where her father was employed by the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company, and she married Curtis P Jinks.

Curtis and Irene retired in Olathe, Kansas, but later returned to Palacios, Texas. After Irene had several strokes they moved to Houston, Texas, to be near Claude, one of their children.

The following is an article published by The Daily Tribune, a newspaper out of Bay City, TX, in 1985.

Tales of yesteryear
ONLY MEMORY OF OLD GULF LINGERS ON - By Charlyn Finn

The town of Old Gulf may very well hold a short existence record ... the first house was built there in 1918 and the town literally packed up and moved away around 1938.

Considering that the only landmark left is the clubhouse, it is difficult to visualize a full-fledged town erected on that same site.

The former site of Old Gulf can be found by taking a left turn before approaching the town of Matagorda, onto the Cemetery Road, and following the road until one sees the clubhouse. It stands today, a silent reminder of the town that is no more.

While there is very little material evidence left of the town built by the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., there are people in the area who lived at Old Gulf and remember the good times had there. Saturday, for instance, the second half of a reunion of Old Gulf School alumni was held at the Bay City Community Service Center. The group held another reunion Feb 16 in the El Zarape Restaurant.

Some of those who attended the first half said the reunion was extended because "those who appeared at the first half were so excited about reuniting that no actual business was accomplished." The second half of the reunion was also a business meeting. The Old Gulf School alumni wants to hold class reunions in the future.

The two meetings have been a reunion of those who attended the school built by the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co.

The idea for the reunion originated from Irene Bell Jinks of Palacios and Joyce Cox Wynn, a couple of ladies who had attended the school, moved away from the county and then returned.

They were elated by the response they received after inviting their former classmates to a reunion to be held on Feb. 16.

"Saturday, Feb. 16, 1985, the El Zarape dining hall was filled to capacity with approximately 200 people - Old Gulf, New Gulf and Matagorda County children all grown up, I'm sure most were grandparents, some great grandparents." Mrs. Jinks reported. "Beautiful, mature women - real fashion models and handsome men all suited out Johnny Carson fashion. I've never seen a more beautiful group of people. Silver was the predominant hair color but silver is beautiful. The atmosphere was awesome, loving and happy. I could tell from conversation it had been a long time since these people had seen each other. Fifty years for me."

Jinks had issued an invitation through the Tribune. "Today, I am a voice from the '20," she said in her invitation. "The flappers, the guys and dolls have all turned to memories. We rattle our upper and lower plates, strain our eyes to thread a needle and sigh as we pull our weight from the easy recliner before the T.V. I remember even when radio came only over earphones. When we wound up the phonograph and did the Charleston, black bottom and tap danced to Guy Lombardo's 'I loved to waltz to down in Ohio where the little violets grow' etc."

Apparently Jinks' colorful invitation did the trick.

After it was all over Feb. 16, Jinks was able to report that the planned program could not be carried out because of the press of the crowd. Joyce Cox Wynn held the floor for a few minutes, telling why this was held today and would be continued March 9 with a covered dish dinner (noon) meal at Bay City Community Service Center." Jinks said.

In thanking those who attended the first meeting as well as the staff at the El Zarape, Jinks referred to the first meeting as a "Happy milestone."

She had requested all those planning to attend to bring their pictures again because an opaque projector would be set up at 10 a.m.

According to the history books, a corporation called Gulf Sulphur Co. was formed in 1909 and bought a site known as Big Hill. It was a domelike land surface approximately 60 feet high, located east of Matagorda along the intercoastal Canal where it opens into East Bay.

Gulf Sulphur Co. became Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. and operation of mining sulphur began at the site purchased. The company not only hired employees and started up a mine, it laid out a townsite and created a town named Gulf.

The company built a city, modern for that time, and built surfaced roads, a utility system that provided water, gas and lights, stores, a school, hospital, community center, pavilion and dairy.

The employees built a house a day. The first was built July 16, 1918.

Eventually a small park with flowers was laid out.

The town acquired a grocery store, dry goods store, cleaners, barber, drug store, hotel, cafe, service station and garage and a movie theater.

The United States postal service opened up a post office at Gulf.

Eventually, though, a second plant was established at what is known as Newgulf today and operations shut down at what is now referred to as "Old Gulf."

The town was literally packed up and moved away. Some of the buildings were moved to Newgulf while others were sold. Many of the old houses in Bay City actually were moved from Old Gulf.

Soon, all that was left was the twin smokestacks of the plant. In 1964 these were dynamited and the bricks were used as rip rap for the new Port of Bay City.

History book references to the town is rather dry.

Jinks very colorfully brought the town back to life in her invitation to her classmates.

"Old Gulf was a real city in Matagorda County," she said. "Remember the music at the picture show and the parents reading out loud, the writing on the screen. It had a fine hospital where many of you first saw the light of day. There was a post office, drug store, restaurant, church social hall, barber shop, a tennis court used for skating too, pavilion near the water's edge, good orchestras came to play their sweet music. The reservoir was the meeting place to swim, have a picnic and dive from the high divingboard."

From Jinks, one learns that the high school "was the most fun place."

She vividly talks about how the girls "squealed" when they cut up frogs in biology lab and how the boys and girls from the school would meet at the drugstore for a Coke.

She talks about the club "Girls Reserves," wearing blue glee club jackets and "cocky" tams, and the "shorty bloomers" worn by the girls basketball team.

Others from that time talk about the sadness felt when the plant layoffs began in 1933 and the final banquet held at the school for alumni and teachers in 1938.

The former residents of that townsite as we well as those currently living in the county have seen something rare in the past month. Due to the efforts of Jinks and Wynn, a past era has been brought back to life.

They had the following children:

After 50 years, the Baptist Church in Pincher Creek is still going strong.

Members celebrated the anniversary of their church Aug. 28-30 with a Youth concert Friday night, barbecue and program Saturday night, and a special service Sunday morning.

The event was planned in August to accommodate the attendance of the children of C.P. Jinks, the founding member of the present Baptist Church.

Charles Jinks, the eldest of the children, explains how his father decided a Baptist ministry was needed in Pincher Creek.

He said his father was an oil driller and stationed on one of the first rigs in the Pincher Creek area in 1948.

have you know I'm still a Baptist."

Today, the Jinks, Charles, Claude, Nancy (Becker) and Ken are very proud of the church their father played a role in starting up again.

"We're excited for the anniversary. Some of us drove 3,000 miles to get here," pointed out Ken.

Charles and Ken came from Phoenix, Claude is from Houston and Nancy is from Edmonton.

After the Jinks family left the community, Rev. and Mrs. A. J. D. Milton came to take charge of the work.

In about 1980, with an average attendance of 75 in our Bridge

"He came and there wasn't a Baptist church," said Jinks.

A Baptist congregation was organized in town in 1905 by Reverend D. McIntyre, but discontinued in 1910.

Charles said his father started to talk with people in the community to see if they would be interesting in meeting as a Baptist congregation.

Gerald Ward, from the First Baptist Church in Lethbridge, came out and helped the services that started out in what was called the Orange Hall and now is the Elks Hall.

> "Dad said 'I understand you used to be a Baptist.' The man said 'Young man I'll have you know I'm still a Baptist.
> Charles Jinks

Charles said his father did the ministry at the church and on the Sundays he had to work, Ward would drive from Lethbridge to conduct services.

The Jinks stayed in Pincher Creek for a year and a half until C.P. was transferred to Edmonton.

The family tried to keep track of the church and through the years different family members would return for a visit to Pincher Creek.

A fond memory the daughter and three sons of C.P. have is when their father was visiting people to start up the Baptist congregation.

"He met and elderly man," said Charles. "Dad said 'I understand you used to be a Baptist.' The man said 'Young man I'll Street Church, members began to examine the need for more room. A building committee was formed and property bought on Charlotte Street. Construction began on April 9, 1985, dedication service held Oct.13, 1985 and a Thanksgiving dinner on Oct. 14.

On Oct. 7. 1995 a service of Thanksgiving was held when the mortgage on the building was paid.

Ministers who have served at the church are A.J.D Milton, Gary Splett, Richard Clark, A.E. Ruark, Les Funk, Ralph Orvis, Ralph Easter, Ron Harris, Andrew Wolstenholme, Bob McLaren and Stephen Reynolds.

More than 200 people gathered throughout the weekend. On the Friday night the youth gathered to "rock the praises of God" to the beat of Sequoia, a band from Cranbrook, B.C.

Saturday past and present members and friends, from as far away as Texas, Arizona and Edmonton, gathered for a beef supper. Following the supper a concert of praise and worship was held featuring The Haven of Hope Quartet from High River.

Sunday morning featured the bell ringers from First Baptist church in Lethbridge, a duet by Nancy and Ella Dee Jinks, the First Baptist choir and an encouraging message from Dr. Charles Jinks.

157. Cecil Scott JINKS. Son of Pearson Kimbrow JINKS & Eliza (Lida) Rebecca TERRAL. Born 11 Feb 1914 in Bay City, Matagorda County, TX. Died 9 Jul 1997 in Hutchinson, Kansas. Buried 12 Jul 1997 in Lyons Municipal Cemetery, Lyons, KS. Occupation Oil Field Work/ Mail Carrier-US Postal Service.

Cecil Scott Jinks is the eighth child of ten children. Shortly after he was born the family moved onto a rice farm, near Wadsworth, TX. Judy, a sister, was born in 1916. In 1917, a hurricane destroyed the rice crop and they moved back to a familiar house near Bay City. It was the house where Ercil, a sister, had been born in 1911 and where Margaret, another sister, was born in 1918. Cecil's Dad farmed cotton and corn for the next couple of years. In 1920 he took a job as a carpenter in the oil field. Thus, the family moved to West Columbia, TX, where Judy, Margaret and Cecil started to school.

When the depression came, in 1929, his Dad lost his job and they moved to a little farm near New Gulf, TX, the location of the largest sulfur mine in the world, at that time. The power on that farm was supplied by two mules; a coal oil lamp supplied the light. There was no running water and the primary comfort was provided by an out-house. Cecil's Dad abandoned the farm in 1932 and they moved to Boling, TX. Cecil joined the CCC while he lived in Boling but after two surgeries for sinus problems he left. The family moved from Boling to Piggott, AR, after school was out in 1934, to join Dad who had to gone Piggott to work for Metropolitan Life as a carpenter repairing buildings that had been taken over by Metropolitan when they had a mortgage foreclosure.

Because of Cecil's age, it was difficult for him to break ties with the Boling area, where he had grown up, so he went back there and took any kind of job he could get; mostly temporary jobs in the oil fields. He slept anywhere he could and ate anything he could just to keep his head above water. He went from Texas to Arkansas several times because work was so scarce. In 1937 he went to South Central Illinois, where they had struck oil, and got a full time job for the first time in his life. In the oil business one moved wherever and whenever the oil company told them, especially if they were in the drilling department.

In 1938 Cecil met Helen Truesdell, from Kansas, who was visiting her sister in Illinois, and in 1941 they were married. When WW II came they moved to Little Rock, near the place where his parents had moved. Large quantities of aluminum were required for planes and other uses in the war effort and Cecil worked for the Reynolds Aluminum Company where they were refining alumina just south of Little Rock. While living there, their first child, Linda Gay was born.

In 1944 they moved to West Texas where Cecil was employed once again in the oil fields. Their son, Mike, was born while they were living in Levelland, TX. In 1946, they moved to Lyons, Kansas, where their last two children, Roger and Saundra were born.

For about 15 years Cecil worked in the production department of the oil business. He was employed for awhile by the State of Kansas by the commission that controlled the production of oil and gas. Later he joined the US Postal Service as a rural mail carrier. While working for the postal service, Cecil was severely injured in an automobile accident, and was forced to retire in 1975 on a disability pension. He continued to live in Lyons, KS.

On April 27, 1993, five days short of his 48th birthday, after many years of health problems, Mike, Cecil's son, suffered a coronary, and passed away.

Cecil has seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Cecil Scott Jinks passed away peacefully and with dignity on Wednesday, July 9, 1997. Funeral services were held on July 12, 1997 in Lyons, Kansas at the First Christian Church. Officiating was the Rev. Tom Eastman. The Organist was Bertena Janssen. Casketbearers were: Ed Truesdell, Dean King, Tom Ramsey, Jack Janssen, Bob Burge and Jim Crosby. Memorials were given to the: Lyons Public Library and Bell and Star Fund.

Medical: Height: 6' 7"

Cecil died of a tumor (cancer) on his thyroid.

He married Helen TRUESDELL, daughter of Herbert TRUESDELL & Vera DE BACHER, 28 Jun 1941 in Fairfield, IL. Born 13 Feb 1917. Died 18 Apr 1997 in Little River, KS. Buried 21 Apr 1997 in Lyons Municipal Cemetery, Lyons, KS. Occupation Hswfe. Education High School. Religion Baptist.
They had the following children:

158. Jewel Corrine JINKS. Daughter of Pearson Kimbrow JINKS & Eliza (Lida) Rebecca TERRAL. Born 12 Oct 1916 in Wadsworth, Matagorda County, TX.

Jewel Corrine Jinks was born on a rice farm near Wadsworth, outside of Bay City, Texas. She is the ninth of ten children. At the time of her birth, her oldest brother, Leon, was in college at Texas A & M. Soon after her birth they moved to Bay City, Texas. Margaret, a sister, was born 22 months after Jewel. Besides being her sister, Margaret is her best friend.

When Jewel was five years old her family moved to West Columbia, Texas, where she attended school from the first to seventh grade. Then the family moved to Boling, Texas where Jewel graduated from high school in 1934. After her graduation the family moved to Piggott, Arkansas.

During the time her family lived in Boling, the Big Depression struck and times were hard. Though they were poor they never went hungry. Jewel's mother was a great manager. During this time her father, Pearson Kimbrow, bought a whole field of green beans for a dime and her mother canned many jars of green beans. One of the local farmers could not make enough from his potatoes to pay for their harvest so he plowed them up and posted notices for people to pick up as may as they wanted. Pearson Kimbrow and three of the younger Jinks children picked up enough potatoes to last all winter.

Ozella, Jewel's oldest sister, was an excellent seamstress and made dresses and other things for Jewel and Margaret. Another sister, Ercil, was working in Oklahoma and sent boxes of hand-me-downs. The brothers of the family, who worked in the oil and sulphur fields, bought shoes for Jewel and the other children at home. In Jewel's last year of high school she worked a couple of hours each day in a small lunchroom, operated by a friend, for 25 cents a day. She used this money for graduation expenses.

After graduation in 1934, Jewel, her mother, and Margaret moved to Piggott, Arkansas to be with her father who had a job there. Times were still hard and Jewel was eager to do anything to earn a little money. She cleaned house for one lady for 25 cents a morning, worked in a small coffee shop for $4.50 a week, and worked in a dime store for one dollar a day.

After Margaret, Jewel's sister, graduated from high school in 1935, she went to Little Rock, AR to attend business school. Jewel went to Lubbock, TX to help Ercil take care of her two little boys until her daughter, Margaret Ann, was born. When Margaret Ann was born Jewel returned to Piggott and stayed there until Margaret finished business school and had a job. Jewel then went to live with Margaret while she attended a beauty school.

While attending the First Baptist Church, in Little Rock, Jewel met and married Bob Washburn. Not long after they were married, Bob went to work for the Arkansas National Guard.

1939 - Bob's National Guard Unit was one of 16 units in the United States called to active duty. Jewel was five months pregnant.

1 Dec 1940 - Jewel went back to Little Rock to have their first child, Sara Margaret who was born on December 19th.

The next two years of Jewel's life was spent at various Army installations while Bob trained for overseas service. Their second child, Robert L. Washburn, Jr., (known as Bud) was born before Bob left for the Philippines. With Bob gone, Jewel and the two children moved back to Little Rock, to a house about a mile from her Mother and Dad, and lived there until Bob came home in 1945.

1946 - Bob re-enlisted in the Air Force and the next 16 years they lived in many places, including two years in Japan which they thoroughly enjoyed. They also lived in Victoria, Texas where Sara married. On Jewel's 41st birthday, Sara presented her with a lovely granddaughter, Becky who has, by far, been the best birthday gift Jewel has ever received, and who has continued to bless and enrich her life.

1962 - Bob retired from the Air Force and they left Columbus AFB, Mississippi and moved to Pasadena, Texas.

1963 - Jewel and Bob bought a house and Bob went to work for NASA. They enjoyed 16 years in Pasadena before Bob died in January 1979, four months short of forty years of marriage.

1997 - At present, her son, Bud is divorced and lives with Jewel. Bud is the manager of an Aero club at Ellington Air Force Base.

Jewel has five grandchildren, two of whom are deceased. She has four great grandsons - two by adoption, one from a previous marriage, and one by her youngest grandson.

In Jewel's later years, because of the good planning her and Bob did when they were young, has been fortunate to be able to travel. Jewel has visited seven countries in Europe, Israel, China, Japan and Hawaii. She has also toured the Western part of the United States in a motor home.

Jewel says, "God has richly blessed me. There have been some sorrows, but God never promised us a life of perfect bliss. Now my life is busy with church activities, friends, relatives and grandchildren. I am rich in love which is the greatest gift life can offer."

She married Robert Lee WASHBURN, son of Lee Roy WASHBURN & Melba THOMPSON, 15 Jun 1939 in Pulaski County, AR. Born 11 Jan 1914 in Macon County, Decatur IL. Died 27 Jan 1979 in Pasadena, Harris County, TX. Buried 30 Jan 1979 in Houston National Cemetery/Houston, TX. Occupation Safety Engineer, N.A.S.A.

Robert Washburn was a retired Air Force Sergeant after 30 years of service. He was in World War II and the Korean war. His social security number is: SSN #430-07-2265. Robert was retired as a Safety Engineer at N.A.S.A.

Medical: Immediate cause of death: Congestive heart failure. Due to: Hypertensive cardiovascular disease. Due to: Arterioscleretic Heart Disease.

They had the following children:

252	i.	Sarah Margaret WASHBURN
253	ii.	Robert Lee WASHBURN Jr.

159. Margaret Louella JINKS. Daughter of Pearson Kimbrow JINKS & Eliza (Lida) Rebecca TERRAL. Born 17 Aug 1918 in Bay City, Matagorda County, TX. Education Business College.

Margaret was born on a Saturday, three months before the end of World War I. She is the tenth and last child. Margaret says, "I have never kidded myself that the family was delighted to have a number ten join the family, but I will say to their credit that I always felt loved".

Just before her third birthday the family moved to West Columbia, TX. She does not remember the move but her mother said she cried to go home for several weeks. Margaret started to school in West Columbia and continued there until the middle of her fifth year when they moved to New Gulf, TX where she completed grammar school. In 1931 she entered high school in Boling, TX. She always loved school and was heartbroken when in 1934 her family moved to Piggott, AR which took her away from her friends and to a new school for her last year of high school. Margaret was grown and married before she forgave her parents for making her move. She knew in her practical mind they could not afford to leave her behind to board with someone but it was such a "wrench" to have to leave her friends and go to a strange school to graduate. If she hadn't gone, she would never have met her good husband -- so "all is well that ends well".

Margaret has a sister, Judy, who is 22 months older than she is. When they were growing up they were dressed like twins. When they were little girls they played with all the animals their six brothers brought home. Once they asked for two little pigs their Dad was going destroy because their mamma did not have enough "dinner plates" to feed all her litter. They dressed them in doll clothes and pushed them in their doll buggy, fed them with a bottle and really had a good time with their "real live dolls". Judy and Margaret shared the same room all of their lives. They wore each other's clothes. During the depression they sometimes had only one good dress or pair of hose between them and the one who needed it most got it. Margaret is confident that if she needed anything Judy could give here, she would only have to ask and it would be forthcoming. Judy has been a wonderful sister, confidant, and friend and Margaret is thankful to her parents for giving her such an ally.

Margaret doesn't think she has any "scars" from the depression. The only thing she remembers, that really hurt, was not being able to be in a school musical because they could not afford the costume. She got up courage and borrowed something, that would suffice, from her sixth grade teacher, who was a voice major, and had costumes for all kinds of occasions. Another thing that she remembers was that those who could afford the 25 cents for lunch were dismissed from school to ride a bus (no charge) to the Houston ship channel to tour the historical battleship "Old Ironsides". There were three children in school, at the time, and there wasn't 75 cents for all of them to go, so they stayed in school.

Margaret recalls a time, when the family was living in Boling (1932-1934), her Mother gave her a dime and said, "Run down to the meat market and tell Mr. Price to send me ten slices of boiled ham." At 13-14 years old she thought that sounded like a real bargain.

She always had plenty of food and thanks to her older brothers and sisters who had jobs, she always dressed well. They were wonderful to see that she got the things she asked for Christmas so she never felt deprived. Her growing up years were full of a loving family -- brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews -- school, football games, and school organizations. She lived in the industrial section of Texas where oil and sulphur were produced. Thus, the schools didn't have trouble with budgets. The school paid for all her field trips, except lunch, all her paper, pencils, ink and books.

When she graduated from high school, in 1935, she went to Little Rock and lived with her oldest brother, Leon, and his wife, Mary Jean, while attending business college. When she finished the course there were no jobs to be had for a girl who had had no experience and was still not 18. Leon had graduated from Texas A & M in 1922 and while having lunch with a friend one day told him of her inability to find a job, though her grades were excellent. This person was Director of one of the federal agencies, for the state of Arkansas, that had sprung up under the Roosevelt Administration. He told Leon that he could not hire her until she reached 18, but to come in and put in an application on her birthday and if she would be willing to take any kind of job, he would see that she was hired when the first opening came up for which she was qualified. Margaret went in on the 17th of August and on December 26, 1937 they called her to go to work. Thus, her working career began on December 27th, 1937.

In 1938 she met Harrison Monday at the First Baptist Church in Little Rock. They ran around in the same crowd and were good friends but he was working his way through college and could not afford to ask a girl for a date so their friendship was advanced through church gatherings and trips to Walgreen's Drug Store for a cup of hot chocolate, when they ran into each other downtown.

In early 1942, just after Pearl Harbor, she was transferred to Dallas, TX to work in the Regional Office that was being set up there. Pearl Harbor had thrown U. S. into World War II in full force. Her friends, nephews, brother-in-law and brother were all in service. Margaret was 23, had worked for five years, and wanted to do her part in the war effort but did not want to work in a defense plant. When they began taking women into the Army in May 1942 she began thinking about enlisting. Her brother, Harold, who was in the Navy, was the only one from whom she sought advice and he urged her to go ahead. She enlisted in February, 1943 and served until February 1946. While stationed at the Lake Placid Redistribution Center, processing returned prisoners of war, she got a call from an old friend who had been on a visit to Little Rock and found that she was only 165 miles from him -- one Harrison Mondy. He asked to come up to see her on the weekend. When one is a long way from home, it is always good to see an old friend. This was in September 1945, the weekend the Japanese surrender terms were signed. They were married on April 8, 1946 after she was discharged, with the rank of Captain, but was still on terminal leave.

In February of 1947 Margaret's mother, Lida, was badly burned. She was in the hospital for four months the first time. In that Margaret was the only one who did not have children in school, she went home to Little Rock to help take care of her. Harrison left his job in Dayton and returned to Little Rock to work for a Radio Station, he had worked for before the war, while waiting for government approval to build a new station in New Orleans. Their first child, Judy, was born a week before Harrison left for New Orleans. When Judy was six weeks old, December 1947, she and Margaret joined Harrison in New Orleans. Their son, Jim, was born in New Orleans in 1950. They lived in New Orleans eleven and one half years. Harrison completed his degree, in Electrical Engineering, from Tulane University in 1958, which had been interrupted by the war. Jobs were not difficult to get in those days. Companies sent recruiters to the campuses. Harrison decided on a job in El Segundo, California where they lived for 35 years.

In 1968 Harrison was sent to Australia on a temporary assignment but was still there in 1970. Margaret didn't like an ocean between them so she quit her job and joined him. Judy had graduated from college and married. Jim had finished his second year in college. This was one of the most interesting and educational experiences of Margaret's life.

While stationed in Australia, they managed to travel in Hong Kong, Thailand, Greece, Switzerland, Germany, England and Africa. They even managed to get themselves hijacked by the PLO, just out of New Delhi, India, on their way to Athens, Greece. They came home from Australia in late 1974.

They lived in the same house in El Segundo, CA for 35 years. After Harrison's retirement in 1989, they began thinking of getting out of the traffic congestion. In August of 1993 they moved to Taos, New Mexico. They are looking forward to spend their last years in this beautiful setting. Margaret says, "Life has been good to me for which I am truly thankful".

Margaret Louella Jinks and Harrison Mondy celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1996.

Their son, James, was the Master of Ceremonies. The following is a bit of history he gave relating to his father and mother:

Pop was born in a two-room log cabin, six miles northwest of Pocahontas, AR on 19 March 1917, and lived there until after graduation from High School in Pocahontas.

Mom was born in Bay City, TX on August 17, 1918, moved to West Columbia at age three and attended school in Boling by bus. I didn't know buses had been invented back then.

Pop joined the CCC in 1937, was then transferred to Headquarters in Little Rock where he met Bob Washburn who was married to Judy Jinks who had a little sister named Margaret. Pop had no car so didn't ask Margaret for a date; she did, have a car I mean, but she didn't ask him for a date. It just wasn't done in those days. And am I glad, Judy and I would be a lot older, now.

W.W.II broke out on December 7, 1941.

In 1942, Pop stumbled into a Nazi spy ring in Little Rock and informed Army Intelligence who informed him that if he valued his life, he would catch the next train out of Little Rock, which he did. He ended up working in RADAR and spent the war hiding out in Philly, Chicago, The Big Apple, Boston, and fortunately for everyone here, Syracuse, NY. I know, you are wondering where I am going with all this, just stay tuned.

In the meantime, Mom, was languishing away as an accountant in a boring job when she learned about the brand new Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, which sounded a lot more fascinating so she signed up, went off to Fort Oglethorpe, GA, then to OCS in Des Moines, IA and ended up in the Second Service Command on Governor's Island, living it up in the big city.

And now the plot thickens. The war was drawing to a close and thousands of nurses and men who had been prisoners of war were coming home for discharge and they needed a female officer, like my mom, to take care of the nurses so she was sent to Lake Placid, New York, the discharge center for thousands of returnees. (See how the plot is turning?)

Now Pop had a girl friend in Little Rock, and thinking he had been gone long enough to risk going so see her, he went to Little Rock. While there he met a couple in whose wedding he and Mom had participated a few years before, he asked, "What ever happened to Margaret Jinks?" The answer came back, "She is a First Lt. in the WAC and is stationed near you. I have her phone number, would you like it?"

Well, to make a long story short, Pop drove up to Lake Placid to meet her. Now by this time Pop had discovered that women had legs and when they went for a long walk on White Face Mountain, and the wind was blowing a gale, he looked and said, "That's the girl for me."

Now one thing led to another, and they became engaged (secretly for awhile because of the war) and finally confessed their wedding plans on December 17, 1945. By this time Mom was wearing two bars on her shoulder. So on April 8, 1946, Captain Margaret Louella Jinks became just plain Mrs. H. C. Mondy.

She married Harrison Cecil MONDY, son of Lloyd Waymon MONDY & Mary Ellen CARTER, 8 Apr 1946. Born 19 Mar 1917 in Randolph County, AR. Occupation Engineer. Education Tulane University - BS Degree/Major: Electrical Engineering.

Harrison Cecil Mondy was born on a Monday. When Harrison's father, Lloyd Waymon, was nearly eighteen, his Aunt Hattie died and left Herman, Lewis and Raymond without parents. Lloyd moved into a small cabin and took the boys to rear. When Lloyd married Mary Ellen Carter in 1915, Herman was nine, Lewis was seven and Raymond was five. Thus, Harrison Cecil was born into a family with three boys, the youngest, Raymond, was seven.

1 Jun 1934 - Harrison Cecil Mondy graduated from Pocahontas High School. This was during the depression and the only work available was: following old Dan up and down the corn rows, cutting sassafras bushes out of the field, picking cotton for as little as half a cent a pound (less than a dollar for a hard day's work), milking cows, cutting wood, and slopping hogs.

Apr 1937 - Harrison joined the Civilian Conservation Corps where he made $30.00 a month. He was allowed to keep $8 of it and the rest was sent home to the family. Within a month of joining the CCC he enrolled in a home study course, in radio, which help shaped the rest of his life. The course cost $5 a month. The head of the CCC found out about his endeavors and suggested, to the camp commander, that he be sent to Little Rock where he could go to college This was something he had never dreamed possible

Jul 1938 - He transferred to Little Rock, continued the radio course and passed the exam for First Class Radio Operator. The passing of this exam gave him the ticket that said he could operate a transmitter.

He worked there at the CCC headquarters for Chaplain Kilburn as his clerk. His chief job was keeping the rather extensive library of educational and entertainment films and seeing to it that a film was sent out to the 65 CCC camps in the state each week and repairing the motion picture projectors.

1939 - Harrison was sent to Victor Animatograph Corporation in Davenport, Iowa, for training in repairing the machines. Upon his return to Little Rock, Col. Graham, had him teach a two-week course of motion picture projector repairs to the operators in the Arkansas district.

Sep 1939 - He enrolled in Little Rock Junior College and continued until 1941. In that the Headquarters contingent of CCC personnel was transferred to Camp Robinson, he checked out of CCC and became a janitor at the headquarters; sweeping floors and cleaning toilets at night and going to school during the day.

Jul 1941 - Col. Graham decided to build a radio school in which Harrison was asked to train CCC for future service in the Army, Air Force, and Navy. Graham foresaw our entry into a war. The school lasted from July 1941 until the abandonment of the CCC in 1942.

1942 - Harrison went to Dayton and took a job with Wright Field as a field engineer inspecting products at General Electric, Motorola, Philco, Thomas Clock Co. and many other companies.

1946 - Harrison Cecil Mondy married Margaret Louella Jinks. He took a job as Chief Engineer for WWEZ in New Orleans and remained there until June of 1958.

12 Sep 1947 - Judy Ellen was born.

30 Jan 1950 - James Harrison was added to the Harrison Mondy family.

Due to Margaret's work, Harrison was able to go to Tulane and get his BS in Electrical Engineering.

1958 - The Mondy family moved to El Segundo, CA. Harrison was employed by North American Aviation from Jul 1958 - Jul 1964. He was in charge of their antenna test range where they tested scale models of antennas that were to be installed on the various military aircraft and on the space vehicles. He became very adept in designing impedance matching networks and designed those used on the first space craft to go around the moon. He also designed several of the networks for the antennas used on the B-70.

1964 - In that year there was a cancellation of several contracts held by North American Aviation, Harrison went to TRW where he remained until his retirement in 1989.

1960's - In this period of time a facility was built in Australia at Alice Springs and there was need for his services there. In 1969, May to August and October to December, he was sent on temporary assignment.

Apr 1970 - Harrison was assigned permanently to the facility in Australia. Margaret and Jim joined him there in July of 1970. Jim returned to college in September. In 1972 his first tour of duty was up and he and Margaret had a six-week break before returning. On the way home their plane was hijacked out of New Delhi, India, by the PLO, and for a while they thought their adventurous life had come to an adventurous end. But they survived. In April of 1972 they headed back to Australia via Nandi, Fiji, where they spent a few days.

Aug 1973 - Harrison and Margaret returned to the USA via Fiji. They spent a month in the USA then went back to Australia.

4 Oct 1974 - This was their final trip back to the USA from Alice Springs, Australia.

Feb & Mar 1983 - Harrison was sent on a month's service trip to Alice Springs, Australia.

1976 - Harrison was transferred into the department where they were manufacturing and launching DSCS satellites. There he became the RF engineer on several vehicles and over the years from 1976 to his first retirement on August 1, 1986 he helped integrate, test, and launch several "shots".

- During their tours of duty in Australia, Jim visited and met his wife Geri.

1977 - Brecken, a granddaughter was born, parents are daughter, Judy and son-in-law, John Armstrong.

Aug 1 1986 - Harrison retired from TRW, with 22 years of service.

Jul 1988 - There was one DSCS satellite that had not been launched. The Space System had not intended to launch it but some pressure developed that made them change their mind. It had to be taken out of mothballs and prepared for launching. All of the original crews had dispersed so the leaders started recruiting them back and Harrison was asked to join the crew. He went back to work on Aug 1, 1988, exactly two years from his first retirement and remained until Jan 31, 1990.

- Harrison and Margaret stayed in El Segundo after retirement, knowing that the time was approaching when they would have to choose between being confined to the city because of the traffic problems or getting out to a smaller town where they could live in comparable peace. They began a search for a new home and ended up, in 1993, buying a home near Taos, New Mexico.

May 1990 - Harrison Cecil Mondy started publishing the Mondy Morning Chronicle. He has more than 60 subscribers.

1997- Harrison is 80 years young. He says he is living the best years of his life. The adventuresome mind that led him to a degree in Electrical Engineering is still at work .(now in the high-tech world of computers).

- The following is part of an e-mail message Harrison sent to <kapper2@juno.com> and <cp.ee.jinks@worldnet.att.net> on Monday, June 30, 1997 8:14 PM:

"Margaret and I are leaving Wednesday morning for California and will return on the following Monday (we think). I will not be available on e-mail after 8 AM Tuesday morning because I'll take my computer into the guru to install several devices, scanner, new printer, new sound board, new CD-ROM, etc. while I am gone. I'm trying to get up to date with some of the rest of you blokes."

234. Claude Herbert (Mark) MILLER Jr. Son of Claude Herbert MILLER Sr. & Martha Ozella JINKS. Born 20 Nov 1924 in Memorial Hospital, Houston, TX. Occupation Writer/ Actor/ Producer/ Director. Education UN. Of Texas And American Academy Of Dramatic Art, N.Y.C. Religion Presbyterian.

Mark Miller spent his childhood in numerous small oil field towns along the Gulf Coast of Texas. His parents were devout Baptists, and he attributes his theatrical inclinations to the drama incorporated in church activities and revival meetings. Although he majored in architecture at the University of Texas, after writing a play for the senior year English course he decided to go into the theater, leaving Texas for New York and spending two years at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts.

His first professional job was the male lead in Private Lives, co-starring with his classmate from the Academy, Grace Kelly. This was to be a fifty dollar-a-week tour for the Lion's Clubs of New Jersey, but the long awaited production never took place, since both actors took jobs in summer stock. That summer, Mark performed in a stock production of Philadelphia Story with Sara Churchill, and was asked by the author, Phillip Barry, to continue on a national tour of the play sponsored by the Theatre Guild. The play toured the U. S. and Canada for one year, and upon returning to New York, Mark busied himself with appearances on many of the live television shows of the fifties: Studio One, Philco Playhouse, Westinghouse, etc. as well as being a member of the Robert Montgomery Presents stock company. Among many other plays that followed, Mark starred in The Moon is Blue, both in Chicago company and on tour with Peggy Ann Garner, and in three plays for William Inge: Picnic, Bus Stop, with the Broadway company on tour, and co-starring with Joan Bondell in the national tour of Dark at the Top of the Stairs.

While Dark at the Top of the Stairs was playing in Los Angeles, Mark was cast by Desi Arnaz as the lead in the ABC television series Guestward Ho! opposite Joanne Drew. By this time Mark had spent six years on the stage doing national tours as well as summer and winter stock. He performed in more than a hundred plays as well as having appeared in all of the significant television shows coming out of New York in the mid-fifties, including a year on Portia Faces Life. After Guestward Ho! Mark had starring roles in the television series Please Don't Eat the Daisies, The Name of the Game, and the two daytime shows: General Hospital and Bright Promise. He also appeared in Tennessee William's three character comedy, Period of Adjustment for eight months in the play's west coast production.

Following his work on daytime television, Mark wrote, produced and starred in his first feature film, Ginger in the Morning, casting an unknown by the name of Sissy Spacek in the title role. Although this romantic comedy was ill timed and badly distributed theatrically, it did well on television and found a big audience when Mark toured the country with its play form. That first film also served as a major turning point as Mark began to write and seek funding for other films. A cable film for children, The Story of a Cowboy Angel, was Mark's next project, co-produced with his old friend, Slim Pickens. A big hit on HBO, this film continues to air every Christmas Season. Savannah Smiles followed; a feature film that Mark also wrote, produced and starred in. It has become a classic in family films, and was voted the second best film of the decade (after E.T.) by the Dallas Family Film Festival in 1992.

In the early 90's Mark went about adapting an old Italian film classic, Four Steps in the Clouds, for the American film market. His script was produced at Twentieth Century Fox under the title, A Walk in the Clouds, which has grossed over $130 million to date (1997).

Mark is convinced that warm, literate and affirmative films are not only needed in today's market, but that they have a huge audience waiting for them. This was proven with Savannah Smiles, a small picture, with only regional distribution, playing in selected areas, that was made for $2.2 million and has grossed over $30 million to date (1997). Mark's film projects are not just family oriented. Mark has written fifteen screenplays, and his stories consist of a variety of action adventure comedies, as well as poignant love stories, all unique and inventive and all geared to a large cross-over audience. Those many years in theatre, playing before live audiences around the country, have given him a sense of what people respond to, of what each of us wants to take home from the theatre.

Mark recently formed Brigantine Film Productions with Mario Domina and Russ Kavanaugh to bring his stories to the screen with offices in Los Angeles and Taos, New Mexico. The company is currently (1997) in production on The Shepherd's Song, based on a novel of Mark's to be published soon. Current plans (1997) are to produce several of Mark's screenplays in Mexico, including Tangerine Summer, The Gentle Fiesta and Escape to Boca Grande.

Mark is dedicated to make uplifting, family oriented motion pictures. Mark is married to Barbara Stanger, a writer and actress who starred for many years on daytime television and appeared in two of his films. She has collaborated on several screenplays and stage plays with Mark and along with their young son Gabriel make Taos their home. Mark has three daughters from a former marriage. His two older daughters, Marisa and Penelope Ann are accomplished actresses. His youngest daughter, Savannah, is a graduate student studying child psychology.

He first married Joanne WILSON, 1954 in El Campo, TX. They were divorced 1957.

He second married Beatrice Ammidown, 15 Dec 1959 in New York, NY. They were divorced About 1974. They had the following children:

07 July 1961 - The following article was published in the "Penticton Herald" in Penticton, British Columbia. Charles Jinks was pastor of the Eckhardt Avenue Baptist Church in Penticton and had just returned home from leading revival services in his father's church in Alabama. The Hearld Staff writer was Jim Billingsley.

FREEDOM RIDERS TREATED WITH SCORN SAYS PASTOR

Freedom Riders' demonstrations, which recently caused havoc and bloodshed in Mississippi, Alabama and other United States southern communities were treated "critically" by most whites in the south, says Reverend Charles Jinks, of Penticton.

Returning from a vacation in Texas and Alabama, Reverend Jinks said most of the 'Riders' were troublemakers from New York and Pennsylvania and few Southerners joined the buses that trekked through the confederate states.

"They were treated as outsiders," he said, "Many people were extremely critical of them and their methods."

"One has to live in the south to realize the white attitude to the Negro," the Texas born, Edmonton raised, minister said."

"The situation is not too distant from the Canadian attitude toward the North American Indian. In this country they are undoubtedly treated as second class citizens. Many of the reserves here are in poor condition, similar to most Negro homes in the south.

"But many advances have been made in the southern United States in this regard. For example, schools have been built - many of which are far better than those attended by whites - but Negroes simply do not take advantage of them."

Reverend Jinks said he freely admitted that conditions for some Negroes were not good. Health standards were often low, living conditions poor, "but" he stressed "the situation is slowly getting better."

The youthful minister cited a case where Negroes are paid $3 a day for hoeing peanuts in Alabama.

"Admittedly the pay scale is low," he said, "But remember the owner of the farm gives the Negro and his family a furnished house and encourages other members of the household to work for the same rate of pay. They could earn in excess of $21 a day."

"The attitude of the church in the south toward segregation is a difficult one", Reverend Jinks said.

"In most communities the Negro has his own place of worship and it is often used more often than the white church. There are times when the delinquent type of Negro will try to make trouble. If they do, they are usually tolerated and looked on as trouble makers, the same as anyone else would be."

Reverend Jinks can foresee no immediate solution to the Negro problem, but feels confident that the situation cannot help but improve with time.

He received his bachelors degree at Wayland Baptist College of Texas and is a graduate of Golden Gate Seminary, Mill Valley, California, where he earned his Bachelor of Divinity Degree and Master of Religious Education.

April/May 1996 - Wayland Baptist University's campus paper, the Trail Blazer, published the following article: Meet the Director.

When Charles Jinks graduated from Wayland Baptist University in 1956 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Mathematics, he never dreamed that he would someday have been director of two of Wayland's groundbreaking extended programs.

Dr. Jinks was first named director of the Hawaii Center in 1983. The student enrollment grew from 100 to 348 during the time he spent there.

One of the students that graduated during his eight years in Hawaii is very dear to his heart - his wife. Elizabeth Jinks graduated with honors in 1986.

In 1991 a new center was scheduled to open in Arizona, and Dr. Jinks was the campus' choice to head up the new center. Dr. Jinks says that he has enjoyed the move to Arizona and loves the people. The enrollment has increased considerably, from 5 to 143 in the short 4 1/2 years that Dr. Jinks has been in Arizona.

Dr. Jinks, when he's not in the office, enjoys spending time with his wife, walking and bicycling. They also enjoy going to Fort Huachuca, near Tucson, and California to spend time with their nine grandchildren.

28 Dec 1954 - OUR TRIP TO TEXAS - by Elizabeth Schneider Jinks

A fascinating adventure was in store for me. It would be only a few days until Charles, my husband, would introduce me to the land that is so dear to him, TEXAS. I couldn't fully imagine the adventure that would be mine in a new country, meeting different people, living in an entirely new climate, and having different customs.

It was Tuesday, December 28, when we started out to our new home, Texas of course. We had planned on leaving early Wednesday morning but news of a snow blizzard moving in hurriedly put us traveling in a southern direction. Left behind us were memories of our loved ones and 'God's country,' Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

In our old dilapidated 1947 Ford, the cold north wind whipped through every available crack. The temperature being ten degrees below zero, we trembled thinking any moment we would lose all feeling. Soft white particles of snow seemed to be falling in torrents. Scarcely could be seen Canada's wonderful Calgary Highway. Cruising along at top speed, with our under the dashboard controlled radio tuned low, we received news of a terrific snowstorm in Texas. All our dreams of how we would appreciate the warmth of the pan-handle of Texas vanished.

We reached the border, Sweet Grass, Montana, or as I would say Coutts, Alberta, Wednesday morning. Towards the inspection of our goods, the Custom officials were lenient. The Immigration Officer proved very nice in respect to my visa.

In three hours and ten minutes we drove 192 miles, the distance between Casper and Cheyenne, Wyoming. The sun was brightly beaming, but, oh, how the snow did blow across the highway. It even sifted in around small openings in our well-ventilated car.

We have just passed Lamar, Colorado. The roads are extremely slippery and icy. People with state licenses on their cars are driving cautiously. They probably have never seen roads like these. A heavy truck a short time ago entered the ditch. Even Charles is now driving considerably slower. The first sign 'Icy Roads' was situated where the slippery highway ended.

On Thursday we entered the Oklahoma panhandle. In this state a black solid line on the highway indicates one can pass another, while on a broken black line one is not to pass. I thought to myself they sure do things backward because in Edmonton a white solid line means not to pass. To add to my confusion we entered a different time zone.

It was 9:30 p.m., Thursday, when we coasted into Amarillo, Texas. We lodged in the Elms Motel. A small sign on the wall fascinated me. It said, "This is Texas, You all come back." At breakfast the waitress said, "Do you want your eggs over easy or sunny side up?" I hope you know what she meant because I sure didn't!

In Amarillo we purchased a home, 24 feet long and on two wheels. It is brown, silver and green. We will live on the campus of Wayland College.

We are now on our way to Plainview, Texas with our home behind us. Charles has the gas pedal floor-boarded, but the speedometer only shows forty miles per hour. We are battling a strong wind. If you have been to Texas you will know what I mean.

Early Friday afternoon we drove into a friendly city, the home of Wayland College, named Plainview, Texas. Everyone on the campus gave us a warm welcome. Charles felt right at home, but I can't deny I did feel a bit strange in our new environment.

CHARLES JINKS and FAMILY - PLACES and EVENTS, 1954-2000

1954-1955 - Plainview, TX -Charles and Elizabeth lived on the campus of Wayland Baptist College, in an area designated for trailers. Charles was finishing his degree while Elizabeth was just beginning. They took two classes together, Psychology and English Literature. This was the only semester Charles made the honor roll.

1955 - Berkeley, CA. Charles and Elizabeth left Plainview, TX bound for graduate school, Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Berkeley, CA. They both attended but didn't have the same classes because Charles was a theology major and Elizabeth was an education major.

1956 - Charles P. Jinks was officially a graduate of Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, TX. He graduated in absentia as a math major.

07 Jan 1957 - Elizabeth Susan Jinks was born in Oakland, CA with the heritage of a Canadian mother and an American father.

1958 - Elizabeth became a graduate of Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Berkeley, CA. In that she graduated before Charles, recognition was given to him because not many wives graduated.

Dec 1959 - Penticton, BRITISH COLUMBIA. Charles and Elizabeth with Elizabeth Susan, almost three, accepted the pastorate, sight unseen, to a small church in Penticton. This church had its beginnings in a Hall. By 1963 a beautiful brick church was built on Eckhardt Avenue, thus the church became Eckhardt Avenue Baptist Church.

1960 - Charles received his bachelors degree in theology from Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley, CA. Once again, he graduated in absentia.

12 Aug 1960 - Charlotte Marie Jinks, second daughter, of Charles and Elizabeth Jinks was born in Penticton, BC

22 Feb 1962 - A son, Charles Pearson Jinks, was born. He was called 'LittleTex' in the hospital because Elizabeth acquired a southern accent while living in TX.

Jan 1963 - Richmond, CA. Once again Elizabeth is an immigrant and carries a green card. Her port of entry into the United States, was Blaine, WA. Charles had returned to Golden Gate Seminary, Mill Valley, CA, to work on a Masters degree in Religious Education.

1963 - Elizabeth Susan began school (Kindergarten) in a predominately black community, Richmond, CA. Charles accepted the call to be pastor of the First Baptist Church in San Leandro, CA, while completing his Masters degree.

1964 - San Leandro, CA. William (Bill) Jinks, one of Charles' younger brothers, lived with Charles and Elizabeth, Elizabeth (Betty-Sue), Charlotte and Pearson while completing his first year of college. Charles graduated with his Masters degree in Religious Education from Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary.

1965 - Port Hueneme, CA. Charles and family moved from San Leandro, CA to Port Hueneme, CA, where Charles became pastor of the Parkview Baptist Church. Elizabeth (Betty-Sue) entered second grade and Charlotte kindergarten.

1970 - Buena Park, CA. Charles accepted the pastorate of First Southern Baptist Church in Buena Park, CA.

1973 - Simi Valley, CA. Charles, Elizabeth and children are located in Simi Valley. Charles became pastor of the First Southern Baptist Church of Simi Valley. Elizabeth and Charlotte found this move very difficult because they were in high school and junior high school respectively.

1974 - Charles earned his doctorate degree at the California Graduate School of Theology in Glendale, CA.

1975 - Elizabeth Susan graduated from Simi Valley High School, Simi Valley, CA.

1978 - Charlotte Marie graduated from Simi Valley High School. She had the honor of being a Valedictorian. Also Charlotte was listed in Who's, Who Among American High Schools.

1978 – Concord, CA 94521 (4626 Adams Drive). Charles became the pastor of Bethel Baptist Church in Concord. This move proved to be hard for Charles Pearson because he was in high school. To leave the school in which he had lettered, in football, and try out for another school team was not easy. Elizabeth Susan graduated from California Baptist College, Riverside, CA. Charlotte was attending Howard Payne University in Brownwood, TX.

1979 - Elizabeth won the top National award, The Peggy, in amateur ceramics.

1980 - Charles Pearson Jinks Jr. graduated from Olympic High School, Concord, CA. A large group of family and friends attended and were surprised as he gave the graduation speech.

1981 - Charlotte Marie graduated Summa Cum Laude from Howard Payne University with a BA degree with a major in Math. Charlotte was listed in Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities.

1982 - Kailua, HAWAII 96734 (240 Ilihau St.).
Charles and Elizabeth moved overseas. Charles has accepted the pastorate of the Kailua Baptist Church, in Kailua, HI. Kailua is just over the Pali Highway from Honolulu.

1982 - Charlotte was listed in Outstanding Young Women of America.

1983 - Wayland Baptist University, Hawaii Center was in search of a director. Charles recommended a friend who was retiring from the military. The friend in turn recommended Charles. Charles, with an earned doctorate, met their qualifications and became the Director of WBU, Hawaii Center.

1986 - Elizabeth graduated from Wayland Baptist University, Hawaii Center, with a bachelors degree.

1991 - Peoria, AR 85381-4388 (7624 W. Mauna Loa Lane). Charles accepted the challenge to begin a new WBU center in Arizona on Luke Air Force Base. He lived with Kenneth and Diane Jinks, his brother and wife, while getting relocated. Elizabeth continued to work for WBU, Hawaii Center, as an academic counselor, while trying to sell their home. All their earthly possessions were shipped by boat, on the Matson Line, to the mainland, CA.

Feb 1992 - Elizabeth arrived in Peoria, AZ.

18 Apr 1994 - Elizabeth was accepted into the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in Washington, D. C. She was also recognized as a "Descendent of the First Families of Tennessee".

28 May 1998 - Charles retired from Wayland Baptist University. He was given a 15 year pin and certificate at a retirement reception on the 26th of May, in his honor, at the Luke Airforce Base Non-Commissioned Officers' Club. His new occupation is that of Intentional Interim Pastor for Mission Drive Baptist Church, Phoenix, AZ.

2 Feb 1999 - Elizabeth received her first order from a purchasing manager of Transmedia, Inc. for her book, The Ziegler Family History. In that she published her own book, she became known as "Jinks Publications", unofficially.

2000 - Elizabeth published The Terrell/Terral Family History, 1710-2000.

The Plainview Daily Herald, January 17, 1986, Plainview, TX, printed the following article:

GRADUATION ENDS JOURNEY.

When 43 students at Wayland Baptist University's Hawaii Center receive their respective degrees Sunday afternoon, it will mark the end of a long educational journey for at least one member of the group.

A journey that began here (Plainview, TX) more than 30 years ago.

Elizabeth Jinks enrolled in her first college course shortly after she and her husband, Charles, came to Plainview in the summer of 1955.

Sunday, she will receive the bachelors degree - with a major in religious education - during commencement ceremonies at the Wayland Hawaii Center in Honolulu. A group of approximately 30 area residents, including 13 Wayland trustees, will be on hand for the activities.

"I DIDN'T realize studying could be so much fun," Mrs. Jinks said, exhibiting an attitude not often found among traditional-age college students.

A native of Alberta, Canada, Mrs. Jinks learned of Wayland through a mission pastor at a church she was attending in 1955. She followed her husband, a ministerial student, to the Plainview Campus and worked in the local hospital, enrolling and completing her first college course that summer.

Following Charles' graduation, the Jinks family moved to San Francisco where he attended Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary. Ironically, so did she.

Mrs. Jinks went in as a 20-year-old minister's wife, completing a certificate of religious education (much like an associate degree).

The opportunity to return to Wayland presented itself when Dr. Jinks became director of Wayland's Hawaii Center in 1983. "Actually, I had wanted to return to school much earlier," she said. "Our family was raised, my husband had completed his doctorate, and the opportunity was now there."

She enrolled in the Wayland Hawaii Center in the spring of 1984 and completed her studies in less than two years. Not surprisingly, she is an honor graduate in Wayland's largest Hawaii class ever.

"Since I am the director's wife," she laughed, "I didn't want to embarrass him with my grades."

BEING A transplanted Canadian, attending college in Hawaii did, however, have its moments. " Not having had U.S. history and government, I confused some things quite frequently. But that made every class a learning experience for me."

"I was also old enough to be the mother of most of the students I had class with. But they readily accepted me, and my college experience was truly a great one."

FORTUNATELY, SHE added, "Charles doesn't teach any classes and I didn't have him as a professor!"

With her "studying is fun" attitude, Mrs. Jinks is - not surprisingly - seriously considering additional work. "Several opportunities have presented themselves, but right now I'm thinking about a master's degree in psychology."

With her zest for learning that degree won't take nearly as long to complete.

The above article was picked up and printed in the following other newsworthy publications:

The following is an article taken from: The Bay City, TX newspaper, Monday, May 22, 1967.

Marine Lance Corporal William Donald "Bill" Jinks, 21, of Bay City, son of Rev and Mrs. C.P. Jinks, was killed Friday in Viet Nam action.

A member of an artillery unit firing at enemy positions, Jinks was fatally struck by a mortar round launched by North Vietnamese trying to knock out the big U.S. guns.

Bill joined the marines 28 Feb 1966, while living in Bay City, Texas. He had been in Vietnam since 9 Sep 1966.

The young Marine was still a member of Calvary Baptist Church and the funeral will be held in the church here when his body is returned from Vietnam.

In his letter from Viet-Nam--to his brother, Kenneth W. Jinks, of Bay City--Bill, writing by candlelight as mortar shells flew over his head said, "I'm doing what I want to do and feel I should be doing; there are a lot of guys over here taking a bigger risk than I am..."

Bill was a graduate of Chelan High School in Chelan, Washington, and attended college in California and Kansas City prior to the family's moving to this area. The young man then attended Houston Baptist College.

Jinks had received a promotion to Lance Corporal only last month for his outstanding record in the Corps.

The following is an article written, in 1974, by a Canadian but is very descriptive of the Vietnam era:

Source: The Americans (A Canadian's Opinion) by Gordon Sinclair. It charted #24 on Billboard in 1974.

America: The Good Neighbor (From a Canadian newspaper)

Widespread but only partial news coverage was given recently to a remarkable editorial broadcast from Toronto. The editorial was by Gordon Sinclair, a Canadian Television Commentator. (I have taken excerpts from the full text of his trenchant remarks as printed in the Congressional Record):

"This Canadian thinks it is time to speak up for the Americans as the most generous and possibly the least appreciated people on all the earth.

Germany, Japan and, to a lesser extent, Britain and Italy were lifted out of the debris of war by the Americans who poured in billions of dollars and forgave other billions in debts. None of these countries is today paying even the interest on its remaining debts to the United States. When the franc was in danger of collapsing in 1956, it was the Americans who propped it up, and their reward was to be insulted and swindled on the streets of Paris. I was there. I saw it.

When earthquakes hit distant cities, it is the United States that hurries in to help. This spring, 59 American communities were flattened by tornadoes. Nobody helped.

The Marshall Plan and the Truman Policy pumped billions of dollars into discouraged countries. Now newspapers in those countries are writing about the decadent, warmongering Americans. I'd like to see just one of those countries that is gloating over the erosion of the United States dollar build its own airplane.

You talk about scandals, and the Americans put theirs right in the store window for every body to look at. Even their draft-dodgers are not pursued and hounded. They are here on our streets, and most of them, unless they are breaking Canadian laws, are getting American dollars from ma and pa at home to spend here.

When the railways of France, Germany and India were breaking down though the age, it was the Americans who rebuilt them. When the Pennsylvania railroad and the New York Central went broke, nobody loaned them an old caboose. Both are still broke.

Our neighbors have faced it alone, and I am one Canadian who is tired of hearing them get kicked around. They will come out of this thing with their flag high. And when they do, they are entitled to thumb their nose at the lands that are gloating over their present troubles. I hope Canada is not one of them."

"Stand proud, Americans".

Subject: Address Change

Can you believe how this year is flying by? I'm pleased to announce that my Miss American Wife and the mother of All my children flew in yesterday from Washington D.C. and returned to the thrills of "the home life with Ken". She had to hurry home where she could get ready to go snow skiing with her sisters in Angel Fire, New Mexico this weekend. Weather reports indicate lots of good snow on the slopes and pads on all the trees, I wish. The purpose in this message is to try to help her to stay in touch. In the past she has received mail at <mapper2@juno.com>, plus also her office email address of< Margaret.Apperson@Occ.Treas.Gov>. Please remove the Juno address from your address book and email her only at the office address. As you know, in the future she will be in Houston and I'm not consistent to check her Mapper2mail. Therefore, we will terminate the Juno account at the end of the month. Thanks a million. Ken

Just five days from the above e-mail message Margaret, Ken's wife, sends an e-mail message to the families of the three skiing, Vicki, Martha, Margaret, and others.

Subject: White Ski Bunnies

Well, here we are in Taos, NM. We arrived about 3:00 p.m. from Angel Fire, NM. We had planned to ski until about 2:00 or 2:30 but a front moved in and it began to snow in earnest and we thought we had better quit and get back to the apartment and get packed and over the pass before it got too much snow. It snowed all night Sunday night and all day and into the night on Monday (24 inches). Monday the powder was simply magnificent. Tuesday the sun came out and it was the most perfect conditions that God could make. Today was just as great and I wish we could have stayed all day, but of course we had already made plans to visit A. Mugs and U. Harrison. They are the most hospitable people. Mark Miller is supposed to come to dinner, but U. Harrison says he might not make it because he cannot remember anything and will probably come in a day or two and say, "Did the White girls ever come?" We will start home tomorrow and spend Thursday night with Vicki and come on in on Friday. Everyone sends their love. I wish that all of you could see the snow on the trees and the white mountains. We feel so close to heaven. Martha was sick the first day and did not get to ski with the snow falling but has made up for it Tuesday and Wednesday. She is still on the beginner part of the slopes, but is really improving. Next year she will go to the top with the rest of us. Vicki and I went up on the high-speed quad lift when Martha went to take her lesson. We found a trail (Prosper) that went from the top all the way down freshly groomed. We were the first ones on it. Talk about great, we were literally flying down the mountain. It was absolutely fabulous and we did it four times before we had to meet Martha for lunch. Martha had two great instructors that gave her the confidence to go up the front lift and come down the valley trail. She was scared to death but did absolutely great!!!!!!!!!! Next year she will start with that and be skiing the Blues before we leave. Well, dinner is almost ready so I'd better sign off for now. We love you all, Mom/ A. Maggie, A. Vicki, A. Martha

P.S. Kara, let me know how Patty is getting along.

The following is a letter (received 11 Nov 1996) from Cherry and Vance Kirkpatrick, P.O. Box 385, Limuru, Kenya:

TO: THE FAMILIES OF VANCE AND CHERRY KIRKPATRICK (Pratts, Terrals, Kirkpatricks, et al.)

It is obviously time for a letter to you all. In December we will have completed twenty-five years of service with the Foreign Mission Board in Kenya. It has been a splendid experience for us and we are thankful to the Lord for the opportunity to live and work in Kenya.

COLLEGE EVENTS

You may have heard: We closed the college for the Fall Term because of shortage of operating money. Basically, the school grew too fast for its own good. Fees were short and Mission Funds were cut this year. However, this is working out for the good.

Some monies have come in so that teachers could be paid and general operation could continue. But, there is no teaching being done this term. (The bulk of the budget is student costs.) So, the Fall classes were pushed back to begin in January, 1997. Classes scheduled to graduate in July, 1997, will complete their work in December and graduate then.

You can imagine the shock which flew through the Baptists of Kenya. Their College had closed: for lack of local support! Suddenly, everything began to come together. There was an outcry to do their part. "This has to become our school." "We have depended on operating support from America for too long." And, finally, "Let us have a Harambee and pay the debts, and set up an endowment, and scholarship our people."

So, in December there will be a great fund raising. The faculty is leading the attack. Posters were printed; mailouts were posted to the churches; faculty are fanning out over the country to speak at associational meetings and in the key churches; major fundraising dinners are being planned; and, finally, during the AGM of the Baptist Convention of Kenya, funds from all of the churches will be brought together.

We are thrilled. If these Baptists come anywhere near their goal it will be a first in this part of Africa. There will be a missionary presence for many years, but this college needs to be Kenyan. Foreign subsidy in special equipment, books, capital for building the campus and the presence of missionaries will be required for many years. We truly praise the Lord.

OUR LIMURU FOCUS

God does use everything for good. The break in the seminary schedule and therefore in the Pastors' Wives Studies schedule has given us more time for discipling right here where we live.

A special group of women meets weekly for Bible Study. We meet in the home of one of our members. Elizabeth is an executive secretary and has been a believer for a little over a year. She has never been married and has four children ranging in age from high school to toddler. She now strives to live a life of integrity and is an active witness for Christ. She says that Christ cannot take away all that she did before but that he has washed her clean for now and the future. She was surprised to know that when you fail Jesus, you turn to him, not away from him.

Rose Anido is a tea picker. She has seven children. She has advanced cancer. Last week Rose said, "God loves me very much, I work until 3 pm before I begin to feel pain. He allows me to finish my day's work so that I can feed my family."

Charles Muchai is in the Sunday morning discipleship group. He is a tea plantation manager and is the husband of the chairman of the Limuru town church. He has not made the decision to follow Christ. Pray for him.

Last week we went to a dinner given by the graduates of the schools where we taught in during our two years in the Peace Corps, 30 years ago! A woman who is now a gynecologist/obstetrician was unexpectedly asked to give the closing prayer. She looked surprised and then extended a beautiful invitation to follow Christ. God is preparing very capable people to lead his church in Kenya.

CHILDREN AND GRAND ONES

Cara and Mark will arrive with their two little girls toward the end of November. Assigned to Nyeri Baptist High School, they will teach for two years. Cara will probably live in the same house she first lived in 25 years ago when arriving in Kenya for the first time. Mark will teach Biology and Christian Religious Education. Caitlynn (two and a half) and Laurynn (four months) will have a ball.

Kyle and Jackie have just completed the seven-week training program for Baptist Missionaries. Sometime in February, about six weeks after the birth of their first child, they will depart Baton Rouge for Macedonia. Kyle and Jackie will assist the two churches which survived communism, and will be responsible for church planting and development of churches in that small country. Macedonia is land locked amidst Greece, Albania, Serbia and Bulgaria. Vance and I hope to visit them sometime next summer.

A TIME TO FISH

I don't think that this is one of those famous phrases in Ecclesiastes, but I am back to that again. For several years our boat has been out of commission. A partner was needed, especially one that could take care of maintenance. Around the first of the year another missionary family asked about buying into the boat. So, we own it and they maintain it and we go fishing again. The one mechanic in the country overhauled it and with a new paint job we are thrilled to go after the big ones at Lake Naivasha, again.

ACCREDITATION

This long process is warming up again. The Foreign Mission Board has given the College 50 acres of land to meet the government requirements for a degree granting institution. So, we begin the process again. This time all looks well and we hope to begin student interviews in about 6 months.

FOR YOU SOUTHERN BAPTISTS!

You won't be able to forget that the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions is soon upon us. This offering is about one half of the total support of missionaries. We ask you to give and to encourage your church to give even more. With over 4,200 missionaries, Southern Baptists continue to conduct a steady, dependable and innovative mission throughout the world. Such steady giving by millions of Southern Baptists provide the salaries, houses, cars and operating support in over one hundred countries. Thanks for this continued help. We are grateful that Southern Baptists, through this offering, have enabled us to answer God's call and to serve without interruption for twenty-five years.

A SPECIAL PRAYER LIST

1. Elizabeth, Charles and Rose (see above)
2. Kyle and Jackie/Cara and Mark; as all are on the move: closing up, packing, outfitting and moving to new homes
3. Cherry and her disciples
4. Vance during the changes at the College

Please drop us a note. If you have E-mail please send us your address. Several cousins are on line with us and we find dropping a quick note is so easy.

Love to all,

Cherry and Vance

Chaplain Elizabeth Susan Youngberg, a native of California, graduated from California Baptist College in 1978 with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Education with minors in English and Spanish. She launched into a teaching career that spanned the next ten years.

In 1989 she was accepted into the Master of Divinity program at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary and was commissioned in the Army Reserve in May of that year as a Second Lieutenant Chaplain Candidate. That Fall she began working for Chaplain Jerry Autry at Letterman Army Medical Center, Presidio of San Francisco, California as contract clergy. Nineteenth Avenue Baptist Church ordained her to the Gospel Ministry in April 1990. That Summer she attended Chaplain Officer Basic Course at Fort Monmouth. She then returned to Letterman Army Medical Center to continue her work as a hospital chaplain.

The following is an e-mail message, from Elizabeth S. Jinks Youngberg; in Mannheim, Germany, to Sir and Sande, with a copy to Charles & Elizabeth Jinks, her parents:

Dear Sir and Sande,
(e-mail about work and Bosnia, etc.)

I love my MP(Military Police) BN(Battalion), would you expect any less:-). Very different, they are not geek smart, intellectual like signal soldiers, they are crafty and sly and very street smart. Automation wise I stepped into the dark ages, my section has a 286 computer with a dot matrix printer and no e-mail capabilities, even my phone is jerry rigged. Some 504th soldiers were here to visit and offered to fix everything :-) and while they were at it they added all kinds of fun things in, not quite legal but it was so fun to have them around. MPs are not as friendly and work togetherish as my experience in Signal. I will continue to work hard on them. I have a new set of Company Commanders: 3 female (2 of them with deployed companies and quickly becoming dear friends) and 4 male. I have high hopes that I can convince this group that working together is good and can be fun and that liking each other produces wonderful results. Sir, I would come back to Signal in a heartbeat. Know anyone who needs a chaplain?

When I arrived they told me if I'd been 2 weeks earlier the entire BN staff, including the BC, would have been female. But, we got a new S1 just before I arrived, male. Then we got a male S3, and then a male BC and now a male XO. Oh, I forgot a male S4. Hmmm now that I put it in writing I am the only female left on the staff.

When my new BC (Battalion Commander) knew he was taking the BN (Battalion) and his CH (Chaplain) was female he went to the top CH here in Europe to try and get rid of me sight unseen. They told him "no way," but didn't help him cope with his theological struggles with women in ministry. But now he thinks I am the best CH that ever walked the earth and tells anyone who will listen. Our CSM flat out didn't like chaplains and made every effort to keep me uninformed and out of things...to no avail...I win again:-) (wicked grin!). Now he too is a walking commercial. You could never say that for CSM Washington who I liked inspite of himself:-) but only tolerated me.

Huge BN about 1200 soldiers spread all over Europe and downrange (Hungary, Croatia and Bosnia) too. I am on the road constantly and loving it! Sande you will love this, I know all the PXs (Military Exchange) and shop at every stop! I'd just like to buy all of Europe and ship it home and yet there are so many places to shop I haven't seen yet.

Anyway back to business. Downrange it is cold and the soldiers have been there too long. They are cynical and think all we have done is give everyone a year to rest and rearm. They are still finding huge stock piles of everything you can imagine to wage war. The people in the area don't seem to want peace and we are just in the way. They would much rather be killing each other. It is a miracle that our soldiers are not getting killed in Bosnia. Things are always blowing up right next to them, where they have just been or where they are going. It is such a horrible and desolate country. Mile after mile of burned out, blown up houses with racial graffiti written on them. It is so depressing, and yet the people line the roads to yell at our convoys and put out racial offensive gestures. The only saving grace in all of this is the children. Not the children in Bosnia who seem as hate filled as the grown ups, but the children in Croatia. Croatia has done a marvelous job of rebuilding, they aren't even 5 years away from war themselves. North of the Sava river is like a different world. The children line the roads to wave at the soldiers and you can see them walking to and from school and out playing. Life is obviously happy for them! You still see mine fields and skeleton houses and bullet holes in buildings, but much rebuilding is already done or is being done now! Maybe the best thing we've done is keeping the Bosnians out of Croatia by securing the river crossings.

Soldiers are frustrated to hear that in the States the people don't know what is going on, that CNN (Television Channel) isn't even interested. They feel they are sacrificing for what? A country that can't even remember where they are.

Sorry it is not more positive. Did I answer your questions? Thanks for asking. Elizabeth

The following article was printed in the Santa Barbara, Calif., News Press, Thursday, February 10, 1983.

Area residents have been selected for inclusion in the 1982 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America," it was announced by the awards program board of advisors.

Honored were Carol Anne Cullen of Goleta; and Charlotte Marie Jinks, Michel Nellis, Kristine Paula Crawford, Jane Blythe Dozer, Laurie Ashley Michaud and Kathleen Marie Kinane.

The program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women, ages 21-36, who have distinguished themselves in their homes, professions and communities. Nominations are made by women's organizations, college alumni associates and public officials.

The following is an e-mail message from Charlotte as El Nino caused ravaging storms in California, February 7 1998:

It is still raining but we haven't lost power yet today and there hasn't been a high concentration of rain. School was cancelled yesterday and Goleta (a suburb of Santa Barbara) was declared a disaster area. The creeks could not handle the large amount of water and they overflowed. Fairview (a main street in Goleta) and Calle Real was closed with OSH and Vons both having water in the stores. Fairview and Hollister had about 4 feet of water for about 1/2 mile down Fairview to the beach. Right outside our cul-de-sac, Santa Marguerita Drive was a rushing river - boy do we have a lot of mud now. The foothills were saturated so all the water came down the hills toward the ocean. What added to the problem was how hard it was raining. Goleta had three inches of rain in just 2 hours.

We are all safe and warm - maybe just a little cabin fever. We are all together and enjoying playing as a family. We decided if you are going to have a disaster outside you shouldn't spend your time inside doing chores (happy times also helps to keep the girls (Aimee and Kristi) calm and feeling safe.)

She married Edwin Reed WARE, son of Gerald Wayne WARE & Mae Eleanor HOGUE, 16 Apr 1983 in Santa Barbara, CA. Born 17 May 1956 in Santa Barbara, CA. Baptized in 1982 in Santa Barbara, CA. The following article appeared in the Dallas Times Herald, Thursday, July 5, 1990, profiling Denise Jinks:

MINDING THE STORE

Loyal customers find new owner fills prescription - by Dick Hitt

Denise Jinks says it was exactly 7:32 on the frosty December morning when she arrived to open the store. The traffic had been worse than usual all the way from Lakewood to the Miracle Mile. Even so, she was only two minutes late.

The old boys of the never-miss neighborhood coffee-drinking club stood and watched silently as she approached. They were standing hunched on the sidewalk in front of the locked store, waiting for her, hands in pockets, shuffling their feet and breathing out puffs of vapor.

"Hey, Denise," one of them finally said. "You know it's supposed to be really cold tomorrow...."

Half a year later, Denise Jinks looked out the store window into a cloudless 97-degree summer day, remembering the moment with a husky laugh.

"He didn't even have to finish the sentence," she says. "Those guys have been coming here for coffee longer than I've been alive, and they were letting me know the store's supposed to be open at 7:30, not 7:32. I've tried to do better since then."

At the time of the two-minute lapse, Jinks had been the whippersnapper newcomer on the block for less than two months. She signed the papers buying Country Club Pharmacy from Clarence Young on Oct. 23, 1989. The distance between New Dallas and Old Dallas could be as short as a signature.

At 29, Kansas born Jinks had become the owner and curator of one of the North Dallas fondest and classiest institutions, a tradition that remained a landmark even as it occasionally changed its locations.

Through more than a half century, Country Club has kept a consistency laced with contradictions. First, it hasn't stood anywhere near a Country Club since 1947, when its founding owner Carl Hudgens moved it from the original site at Normandy and Preston Road, near Dallas Country Club. The venerable corner drugstore hasn't even been on a corner since March 1986, when Clarence Young, its owner, moved it a quarter of a mile east from the corner of Inwood and Lovers Lane to its midblock location in Woodlawn Plaza at 5600 W. Lovers Lane.

The store's independence, its insistence on personal service and its lavish inventories contradict the recent trends of the drug business that brought the rise of chains, self-service and shrinking merchandise selections.

The woman whose business card reads "Pharmacist-Owner" says she feels the responsibility to keep a legend going.

She, too, is something of a contradiction as a Dallas drugstore newcomer. Her own family was a drugstore tradition in Kansas, where her father owned Claude's Pharmacies in Olathe, Leavenworth and Kansas City. Father, Claude, her financial and advisory partner in the Dallas store, sold his Kansas interests and runs three pharmacies in Houston.

"I've wanted to be a druggist since I can remember," she says. As a first-grader in Olathe, she would go every morning with her dad to open his store on the square and walk to school from there. "I started working in the store as soon as I was big enough to reach the bottom shelf."

She earned her pharmacy degree in the five-year program at the University of Kansas and found herself hired on by the Eckerd's chain after "a practice interview. . . When they offered me the job, I thought I'd better take it."

Her first posting with the chain was as a pharmacist at the Lakewood store in Dallas, where she remained for nearly six years before becoming the owner of Country Club.

"It's a good chain, a good place to work," she says. "There's room for personal service in a chain store, and the customers and I got to know each other during my years there. But a problem with a chain is that you can't move up and still remain a pharmacist. And of course I've always dreamed of having my own store. When we heard that the Country Club was for sale, and hearing about its reputation and its classiness, we couldn't believe the opportunity."

She seems delighted with being the keeper of so many legacies. She has 12 employees, including three full-time deliverymen. One of them, John Powell, has worked at the store since 1947.

Managing the cosmetics department is a full-time job for Linda Vaughn, who oversees an inventory that rivals most department stores. Although Denise Jinks never expected to be the owner of the last word in cosmetic mirrors, the store has a reputation for its lines of Arpin, I, Rice and Rialto mirrors. "A woman came in and said she'd been told by a friend at a New York dinner party that she could find the mirror she wanted here," Jinks says.

The store's carriage-trade reputation is likewise borne out by its list of more than a thousand charge-account holders. The names on the 33-page printout include Tom and Alicia Landry, Gov. Bill Clements, Ted and Annette Strauss, Erik Johnson, Al Casey and Irene Martinez Garcia of the El Fenix restaurant family.

"When Ultra magazine's list of the 200 top Texans came out, I recognized about 50 of them as our charge-account customers," Jinks says.

She believes it's the depth and rarity of the store's products that accounts for the loyalty of up-scale Dallas. The store stocks 23 brands of playing cards; four flavors of Metamucil, including sugar-free; sacro-braces; rib belts; four kinds of lint-removing devices; infant's nasal aspirators; lace trimmed laundry bags; curling iron-hair dryers with dual voltage and voltage adapters for the Caribbean, Australia and New Zealand. In a time even top-rank hotel shops have drastically cut back their cigar lines, Country Club still stocks boxes of such $2 cigars as Partagas, Macanudo, and H. Upmann.

Jinks, who turned 30 on May 13, revels in being the owner of all this while putting in a full day's shift behind the pharmacy counter, which she says traditionally generates 40 to 50 percent of a drugstores revenues.

She says the stereotype of a druggist's life as one of long hours and little social life unfortunately has considerable basis in fact.

Opening and closing the store six days a week doesn't leave much time for dating. She shares her Lakewood home with a 6 year-old Welsh Corgi named Romulus. She makes time for biking and running, and used to play golf a lot, when coming to work two minutes late wasn't such a calamity.

John Murphy, a Staff Writer, for the local newspaper in, wrote the follow article September, 1997, in California:

Fiery White cools her heels after surgery.

APPLE VALLEY -- On the sideline, Christa White is a fiery sort, capable of blistering an official or one of her players with equal intensity.

But off the court, there's a soft side to the Victor Valley Community College volleyball coach.

Like when she talks about having her right kidney removed because of a malignant tumor.

"I kept thinking it was a bad dream," White said via telephone, her voice cracking with emotion. "I was hoping I'd wake up and not have to go through all this."

The Apple Valley High School educator had no choice. In late July, a kidney infection sent her to the doctor. Antibiotics cleared up the infection, but an ensuing sonogram and a magnetic resonance angiography - a test that takes the place of a traditional angiogram - revealed something more.

White had a mass of material the size of a golf ball on her right kidney. A urologist told her it had to go.

"It was malignant (cancerous)," the 36 year old physical education department head said. "If it were benign (non-cancerous), I could have just had part of my kidney taken out and then left the rest of it. But if I left anything in, the chance of developing another cyst or tumor was great."

White had the whole organ removed, thus reducing her chances of another flare-up and the agony of undergoing chemotherapy.

The surgery was at 7 a.m. Sept. 2 at Victor Valley Community Hospital. She was back in her hospital room before noon.

The night before her surgery, her brother called from Texas, where he is a high school football coach.

"He was giving me a hard time," she said. "He told me to take care of my good kidney because he wasn't going to give up one of his."

White's brother was only kidding. If need be, she has an army of people who would willingly donate a kidney to her. Included are her brother and her mother, Jane, who is a High Desert resident. White's father, former George Air Force Base commander, Dean White, died in 1995.

The Ram coach was a softball and volleyball star in the late 1970's at Apple Valley High School. She also became an all-conference volleyball player at Texas Tech. In fact, she is believed to be the first female athlete from AVHS to receive an athletic scholarship.

White had been in the hospital before for a couple of knee operations. But those relatively minor surgeries were nothing like she underwent last week. All told, she spent five days in the hospital, finally returning home on Sunday.

"It was different," she said. "They woke me up every four hours to take my blood pressure or give me a shot for the pain. They either gave me the shot in my arm or my butt. After awhile, they were alternating right and left cheeks."

The surgery has left White with a large scar. Her surgery, she said, was complicated by the fact that her abdominal muscles are so tight that the surgeon had more difficulty than normal making an incision.

"I guess some of those sit-ups are doing some good." White said with a laugh.

At least the High Desert resident is taking her plight in good spirits.

Her VVC volleyball team visited her in the hospital Thursday and at home Sunday. She also received visits from former VVC volleyball coach Ray Moses and current Victor Valley High coach Jackson Wong.

"You really find out who your friends are when something like this happens," she said.

White has also been deluged with flowers, balloons, cards and other gifts from fellow faculty members at AVHS and from people in the community.

"Of course, with my stomach all sewn up I can't laugh," she said. "So naturally everyone has to pick now to be really funny. One card said, "Do what I do when I'm not feeling well - make EVERYONE PAY!"

White hopes to observe Ram volleyball next week. But she won't return to Apple Valley High until October. The strain of monitoring five physical education classes of 40-plus students would simply be too great.

Jim Ellis, father of Ram volleyball player Kelly, is temporarily filling in as head coach at VVC. Women's athletic director Jaye Tashima and part-time assistant coach John Flesher have also helped out.

The Rams played in a scrimmage tournament recently, with Ellis and Tashima presiding. The scrimmages were filmed for White's edification and the Ram coach said, "I liked some things that I saw."

White is curious what long term effect the surgery will have on her coaching style. She said she may have to tone down her volatile ways. She said she also has a different perspective about life after being cooped up both at the hospital and at home for about a week.

"There are things you do on a daily basis that you take for granted," she said. "Its made me look at things differently. You miss being able to do things like just sit up straight or weed your garden. Things that I normally hate doing, I'm starting to miss."

After languishing on a liquid diet and pain pills for a few days, White is again eating solid food and is off the pain-killers. Once her stomach has healed, the only vestige of the surgery will be the missing kidney and the long scar she'll be able to show off to her players.

"Fortunately I'm not into wearing bikinis," she quipped.

The following is part of an e-mail message Jana sent to her Aunt Vicki, September 22, 1997:

Dear Aunt Vicki,

I can't believe how long it has been since I checked my e-mail. You must have thought I would never write back! I was so happy to hear from you. You brought a wonderful escape from this RUSH.

(Jana has very descriptively written about the life of her four boys, R. Paul (Trae), Jacob (Jake) Wayne, Ryan Mark and Matthew Stephen (Matt). This part of her e-mail message is recorded under their names.)

Paul is busy with EXCEL, his telecommunications company. He loves it! He coaches the boys with their sports which is a full time job! He is team teaching 10th grade boys in Sunday School and I am substituting in there. I needed a little break from full time. I really want a Bible curriculum that will teach scriptures straight through. These kids have no foundation. I think they need to understand the continuity of Scripture before hop-scotching through it. I am working to encourage the implementation of this curriculum, which I studied as a teenager. It was invaluable.

I am substituting in the public school again this year. I have had to take a break to do some volunteer work for Jake's school. I am publishing a commemorative sports program for the fall. It is a full time job! I am not that knowledgeable of the computer, which is primarily utilized for the project. HELP!!!!!

I was sorry to hear about Uncle Monty's thumb--for your sake as much as his. Congratulations on your B&B! I can't wait to see all the changes! As soon as we can, we will take you upon your offer! We love you guys! Thanks so much for writing!

FROM BRECKEN TO THE CHRONICLE (1997 issue).

I just had an amazing experience that I want to share with all of you. I have been intending to write to the Chronicle ever since I arrived at the White House in early July, but I couldn't write a good one until I had had time to reflect on my experience. This experience, however, stands alone so I will be able to write about it now.

I just met President Clinton. I was merely walking down the hallway in the Old Executive Office Building, on my way to make sure that the guys who work in our office had gone to get the cokes in order to restock the refrigerator. It was just a simple task that I didn't think would lead to anything special. Trying to enter into the main hallway, a secret service agent stopped me and told me that I couldn't walk any farther. Looking past him, I saw President Clinton on the opposite side of the wall, shaking hands with some employees and interns. So I stopped and waited. President Clinton turned around and walked towards my side of the hall where two other people and I were standing. The other two approached him to shake his hand, but I stayed back, not wanting to seem like we were all rushing at him. It was funny because he sort of looked around them at me, as if saying, "Why aren't you coming to shake my hand, I am not a scary person..." So I walked directly up to him, stuck out my hand and said, "It is very nice to meet you President Clinton. My name is Brecken Armstrong and I am Harold Jinks' niece." He looked at me and his mouth dropped open. He put one hand on my shoulder while continuing to shake my other hand and looked at me for several seconds. Then he said, "Wow, it is so nice to meet you and I am excited that you are here." He must have said that four or five times. "It is so nice that you are here." - "I am very happy that you are here" - "I am so glad to meet you." He continued to shake my hand through the whole conversation, for two or three minutes.

"So where do you live?" "Pasadena, California. And I go to Yale, your alma mater," I said, continuing to shake his hand. "What year are you going to be?" "A junior, I am an art history major."

He stopped shaking my hand but kept his hand on my shoulder, and turned to the two people next to us saying, "Her uncle was a very close friend of mine in Arkansas. When things were bad, he still supported me. When the Democrats were absolutely slaughtered in Arkansas, he was still there. He even started the Arkansas Senior Democrats."

Then he looked back at me and I said, "Yes, he was a wonderful guy. I just wish that Uncle Harold knew that I am here right now."

It almost seems like he was as excited to meet me as I was to meet him. I must seem like a connection to home to him. With all of the thousands of people that he must meet every day, it must be nice to hear a name that you know. One that you don't know, but one that is special to you and that you trust. Uncle Harold must have been that name to him.

It is funny to me that I was so calm throughout the whole five minute conversation . I wasn't at all nervous. My palms didn't sweat and didn't play with my hair like I did when I met the First Lady. It felt so comfortable to talk to him and to tell him who I was. I have always heard that one of his best traits is that he makes everyone feel as if he is truly interested in you and what you are saying. I found that to be very true. He stood there talking to me for a whole five minutes, much longer than anyone else got to talk to him. It felt right, very exciting, but right.

I was so excited that the mention of Uncle Harold's name had such a strong effect on the President that I wanted to tell everyone about it. They were obviously very close friends, as well as political buddies. I can see that Uncle Harold's death was hard to him, as it was on all of us.

Love,
Brecken

The following is a letter Emily wrote from Mannheim, Germany, where her mother is a Chaplain in the Army:

December 30, 1996

Dear Granny,

Thanks for calling to sing happy birthday to me, it wouldn't have really been my birthday if you hadn't sang to me. I think we are coming to AZ for the summer so Roger can go to school and so Bekah and I can go to basketball camp and to see if William will stop getting sick and if his asthma will go away.

We went to Budapest, Hungary not too long ago to visit Mom while she was on R & R (rest and relaxation) during her deployment to Operation Joint Endeavor in Croatia and Bosnia. It was really nice to see her after so long. She had been gone since the beginning of October. It was a long drive, about 9 hours, but well worth it. It was really interesting to see how different the culture was in Hungary, compared to Germany, compared to the States. Dad would get all confused with 3 different kinds of money in his wallet at one time and we didn't even get money in Austria as we drove through. We got to stay in a hotel on a island in the middle of the Rhine River. There was only one bridge that took you onto the island and it took us a hour and a half to find it. It would have been easier to find if any of the people we asked spoke English. But we got to see a lot of the sights in Budapest while we drove around. Dad got frustrated and was worried that Mom would get to the hotel before us and we wouldn't be there to greet her when she got off the bus with all the other soldiers. He was a lot happier when we got to the hotel and checked in and found our room all before Mom's bus got there. The hotel was huge and really plush, it had four swimming pools inside the hotel. Rebekah had to do a report on Hungary for her English class, so went to see lots of the sights in Budapest 'till it got too cold and then we went back to the warm pools inside the hotel. Budapest has the very old and ornate part of town and a blah gray part that I think must have been built under communism and a little bit of new that is very modern. It is a big city, it sort of reminded , me of New York. They have a great shopping area called Elizabeth Square. I found a ballet store there, I was so excited. I was able to get some ballet paraphernalia that I couldn't live without. Unfortunately I was unable to get what I really needed, ballet slippers (soft shoes not toe shoes). We got to eat at Pizza Hut for lunch, they did speak English there. They even had a Jute Box with oldies from the 60's, 70's and 80's. It was kind of weird since we were in a non-English speaking country.

William's birthday was December 14, he turned 1. Mom got to come home from her deployment for a little bit. The housing people began 10 days of remodeling our kitchen on December 10th, Mom got home on the 12th and we had already sent out our invitations to William's Birthday Party on the 15th. His party was so wild. Little kids everywhere, along with all their parents. We gave William his own little cake, he had lots of fun destroying it. He even got a little in his mouth. It was so much fun watching him. While he was opening presents he decided he had enough, so he threw a fit. It was so hilarious. It is hard to believe he is already 1. The doctor says he is healthy, tall and skinny. The Dentist says his 7 teeth are right on schedule.

I hope you enjoy the pictures.

Happy New Year!

Love, Emily

The following is an e-mail message from Rebekah while she was in Alexandria, Virginia waiting for a Mac flight out to Germany (1997):

Dear Granny,

Hi, how are you? I'm doing okay. Is Chris back from D.C. yet? I was wondering because I saw a bunch of boyscouts when we went to see the Lincoln Memorial, Women's Memorial and the wall of names. I also got to see Uncle Bill's name on the wall! I think he is real cool from the stories I here about him. I think I might get a bracelet (like the MIA ones) with his name on it. Roger and mom still have to discuss it. Well, if you see Chris tell him I wish I could have met him and I probably will sooner or later. Well see ya.

Love,
Rebekah

Rebekah Elizabeth Rose is also named for her granny, Elizabeth Jinks. Rebekah is the second grandchild of Charles and Elizabeth Jinks.

Student-designed models challenge scientific principles

More than 100 projects made by 5th- and 6th-graders were shown at Kellogg Elementary School's Architecture and Engineering Fair held on March 16.

The event exhibited hands-on science projects designed to challenge and help students make the connection between scientific principles and real structures.

The architecture projects included student-designed models of the Washington Monument, the Eiffel Tower, and ancient Greek and Roman buildings, as well as modern houses. The engineering project included structures such as the Great Wall of China and the Golden Gate Bridge.

In addition to constructed models, students were required to write a brochure describing their project, including such information as how much weight the structure could hold. The brochure also had to contain a section explaining how students designed their projects, using photographs and sometimes even drawings of the stages of construction. Students had to conclude the brochure by describing what they learned by building their project.

Throughout the construction of the models, students received help from volunteer parents and also visits from guest speakers from different fields to discuss their work.

500. Charles Pearson KIKKERT. Son of Charles Pearson JINKS. Born 11 Jul 1987 in Walnut Creek, CA.

The following article, "Grandma, the Immigrant" was written for Charles when he needed a report, on an immigrant, in the fifth grade.

Grandma, Elizabeth Emily Schneider Jinks, is the daughter of an immigrant. Her father, Robert Schneider, was born in Gnadenfeld, Bessarabia, South Russia. He was of German descent. In 1910 he immigrated to Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, where my Grandma was born. In that she grew up in a German community, with the heritage of German parents, the language, foods and culture of Germany were very much a part of her life. Sauerkraut was a staple food. Cabbage was shredded and fermented in a brine made of its own juice and salt. It was packed into large wooden barrels. Enough was made to last for a full year. Instead of small electric lights on her Christmas tree she had real candles. The Christmas tree was not put up until Christmas Eve. This was following German tradition. Her father and grandparents spoke fluent German.

Grandma is not only the daughter of an immigrant but she is an immigrant. She was 19 years old when she emigrated from Canada to Plainview, Texas. It took about six months of filling out many, many forms to be accepted into the United States with "Permanent Residence" status. She and her husband, Charles Pearson Jinks, moved to Texas because he was a student at Wayland Baptist University. At that time, Grandma had a "Green Card" which she was required to carry with her at all times. It was somewhat like a drivers license. It had her picture on it and other important information about her. Charles' father, being an American, had to sign papers saying he would take care of her, in the event that Charles couldn't. Grandma in no way could become a burden to the United States. In January of each year she had to report to the American Consulate. Failure to report meant deportation. She would have been given 48 hours to leave the country.

Grandma's port of entry, into the United States, was Sweet Grass, Montana or as she likes to say Coutts, Alberta. It was very hard for her to leave her fatherland and family behind. The culture in Texas was quite different from that of Canada. When in a restaurant a waitress asked, "Do you want your eggs over easy, or sunny side up"? She needed an interpreter. In Canada eggs were fried. A sign which said, "Y'all Come Back", fascinated her. When she lived on the Wayland University campus, several of Charles' friends came by to see her, just to hear her talk. She had a real English accent. Canada is part of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Grandma takes pride in being a British Subject.

Language was a barrier for Grandma. Everyone spoke English but it didn't sound the same as in Canada. Grandma pronounces the last letter of the alphabet as "zed" instead of the American way "zee". Some of the words in Canada are spelled like those in England. Grandma says she had a Canadian dictionary as the United States has an American dictionary.

In Texas Grandma learned to eat food that she had never eaten before. Some of those foods were: fried chicken, okra, black-eyed peas, lima beans and iced tea. Chicken in Canada was baked, tea was served hot. In the middle of every afternoon, in Canada, a cup of hot tea was served with crumpets or something not too sweet.

Grandma still lives in the United States but enjoys returning to her homeland for visits.

Trae's mother wrote the following in September 22, 1997:

Trae is doing great. He writes or calls weekly. He's been in town twice. He hasn't been home much, though. He misses his friends and they get together when he comes in. He spent the first week in a motel. The dorm was full. He loved it--a pool, cable TV, room to himself, maid service, continental breakfast! He's in the dorm now. He enjoys football at Hardin Simmons, too. He is one of the smallest linemen at 230 lbs. He played every other defensive down in the last J.V. game. He says that in college they stress technique rather than just "muscle". He seems to enjoy learning this aspect of the game-probably from necessity! I sure hope he is studying! The following is a continuation of an e-mail message his mother sent on September 22, 1997:

Jake is back at First Baptist Academy. His football coaches are the finest Christian men. He really enjoys athletics. We have been to the orthopedic surgeon twice. Jake broke his knuckle. He complained when he hit it but didn't even take any pain medication. Based on that, I didn't think it was broken. After 4 days it wasn't any better so we got an x-ray. It was broken. Last weekend he was kicked in the back, reinjuring a place where he was speared in the back on a tackle, oh about 5 weeks ago. We felt he has a bruised rib. (Again, he hadn't taken any pain medication.) Well, this past incident took him out of the second half of the game. The trainer recommended an x-ray especially if he couldn't sleep or breathe without pain. He was laughing and joking around before the game was over. He wanted to spend the night with a friend. By Monday we felt he was probably ok but went to the doctor just to be sure. He had two broken ribs... from 5 weeks ago! He has been healing for 5 weeks. Even though he reinjured them, there is sufficient rejuvenation, that the ribs are stable at the break. I can't believe his pain tolerance. Neither can the doctor! The doctor said that he can play with a protective vest since he has been healing for 5 weeks. (His e-mail is <Jakebell@juno.com>)

515. Ryan Mark BELLINGTON. Son of R. Paul BELLINGTON Jr. & Jana Kay APPERSON. Born 29 Sep 1984 in Dallas, TX.

The information following is was taken from an e-mail message his mother sent, September 22, 1997:

Ryan is enjoying middle school. He is in the band and in soccer and football, also. He practices trumpet regularly. He has even begun picking at the piano. Last weekend he had a fantastic soccer game, scoring the game-winning goal. He played his first football game and did really well. He really enjoyed it, but felt he hadn't done well. Paul always videotapes their games. We all sat down with him, watched the tape and I think he feels more confident. He's a sweet kid. (His e-mail is <Ryanbell2@juno.com>)

516. Matthew Stephen BELLINGTON. Son of R. Paul BELLINGTON Jr. & Jana Kay APPERSON. Born 8 Oct 1986 in Dallas, TX.

In an e-mail message, September 22, 1997, Jana wrote:

Matt is playing soccer and fall baseball. He catches and pitches and plays other positions also. He is playing on Ryan's soccer team which is an under 14 division. Sometimes Matt comes up to his opponent's waist but he doesn't flinch. He is competitive unless they break away on a long run. Those longer strides leave him behind. He sure frustrates them one on one in a control situation. They don't expect him to be such a fighter. Paul is the coach. Matt had to play on his team in order to play fall baseball, too. We couldn't handle another team, schedule, practice, etc. He plays much better against older boys. When he played in his own age bracket, he didn't have to work hard. He is doing great in his schoolwork.

I did have my first parent-teacher-principal conference this week. Matt has been a handful for his Spanish teacher. He led a class revolt so to speak, sending a note to the principal in his defense and signed by the entire class, after being called into the office to discuss the situation. They provided me with a copy. The teacher's feelings were hurt (I don't blame her). She didn't realize he would mobilize an army of 5th graders. Our conference was really helpful to discuss the teacher's perspective and Matt's view of the situation. The principal was slightly amused at Matt's ingenuity and leadership among his peers. His letter was expressed in well thought out fashion but his spelling was atrocious. Someday we will enjoy sharing it with his children.

Matt ran for Student Council President, 23 September 1997, at Heritage. His speech is as follows:

Hello, my name is Matt Bellington, I am running for Student Council President. The reasons you should vote for me are:

If elected, I promise to do all that is possible to have a water fountain put outside because I know all of you, like me, get very thirsty at recess.

Another goal that I have is to remove all the stickers from our field. I have been here since the 1st grade, since the opening day of this school and so have those stickers! At the end of this year, I plan for both of us to leave! Wouldn't it be nice to play on soft, sticker-free grass rather than hard concrete. You tell me.

I will try my best to convince the PTA to help me with these two very important projects and other suggestions from you. Some times its not "what you know", it's "who you know". Lately I've even become very familiar with Mr. DeBolt, and his office. I am sure that I can work with him to benefit future generations at Heritage.

I am no ordinary 5th grader. I got talents! I can throw the football, kick the soccer ball, and I can shoot hoops. Oh man, that was my speech! Oh well, I can use the skill of remembering God gave me to recall the rest. That is the most important reason for voting for me. I got smarts! I hope you have enough smarts to vote for Matt Bellington for President of the Student Council!

(Matt didn't become President of the Student Council but he became the President of his class at Heritage.)

Elizabeth Emily Jinks is an immigrant's daughter, in that her father, of German descent, was born in Gnadenfeld, Bessarabia, South Russia. In 1910 he immigrated to Edmonton, AB, Canada, where Elizabeth was born.

Elizabeth has researched her roots, back to Germany. This led to her co-authoring the translation of the book, "The Community of Gnadenfeld, Bessarabia," from German to English in 1996. She published "The Jinks Family History" in 1997 and "The Ziegler Family History" in 1998.

Elizabeth is a member of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Also she is recognized as a "Descendent of the First Families of Tennessee".

Through the Broyles line, Elizabeth is a fourth cousin to the founder of Wayland Baptist University, James Henry Wayland MD. Ironically, she and her husband are graduates of Wayland. They have both been employed by WBU, she as an Academic Counselor and he as an Administrator/Instructor.

Other organizations Elizabeth is a member of are: Terrell Society of America, Inc.; The Memorial Foundation of the Germanna Colonies in Virginia, Inc.; the Agua Fria Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution; the Arizona Sun Chapter of the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia; the West Valley Genealogical Society; and the Association of Former Students and Alumni of WBU.

Elizabeth is married to Charles Pearson Jinks and they have three children: Elizabeth Susan, Charlotte Marie, and Charles Pearson Jinks Jr. They also have nine grandchildren. Charles and Elizabeth reside in Peoria, Arizona. They attend Apollo Baptist Church in Glendale.

Elizabeth is not only an immigrant's daughter but she is an immigrant, in that she emigrated from Canada to the United States. She takes pride in being a British Subject. Although she continues to live in the United States, she looks forward to visits back to her homeland.
